PDS Reconsiders Educational Aims With Values, Social Behavior in Mind

At independent schools, a long-range plan usually means a capital fund drive, new facilities and an endowment fund for faculty salaries and student scholarships.

Princeton Day School successfully completed the first phase of a $10 million ten-year campaign by raising more than $3 million in the period 1977-1980. A new middle school is under construction and expected to open this fall, and endowments for faculty salaries and scholarship aid have been established.

But along with the customary emphasis on bricks and mortar and endowment, the school has been engaged in a searching re-evaluation of what it is trying to accomplish, particularly in the area of instilling values, that has involved all segments of the school community.

The results so far include a program initiated this year in health education and values in the middle school and a new upper school graduation requirement of 10 hours of community service a year. Peer Group Training, similar to the program that has been so successful at Princeton High School, will be instituted this fall and will involve selected, trained seniors and the whole freshman class.

Outside the school, the Parents Association, with the assistance of the Gallup Organization, put together a comprehensive poll of attitudes to, and expectations for, the social behavior of their own children which was sent to all parents. The findings are expected to be tabulated and released in mid-June.

Looking back on the countless meetings and discussions which have been held in this effort, trustee Benjamin Tregoe says, "It has been a long process, and a sensitive one, but I have a feeling now the thing is rolling. The wave has started to come onto the beach."

Mr. Tregoe is chairman of the trustee Planning and Educational Policy Committee which held numerous separate discussions in 1978-79 with trustees, parents and faculty on the implicit and explicit values of the school. The committee recommended that a trustee-faculty retreat be held in September, 1979, just on the subject of values.

This retreat, which was attended by all the faculty, some of the trustees (although all were invited) and the Parents Association Executive Committee, is acknowledged to have been a key happening in the values clarification process. From it came some 100 suggestions, which were then further reviewed by the various school constituencies for assessment and priority. Grouped into five areas representing the highest priorities and approved by the whole board of trustees, the recommendations formed a mandate or series of directives to the school administration.

The first called for "an improvement in the handling of disciplinary matters within the school" and the development of policies and procedures which would set "standards on which there is agreement."

New Borough Rent Registration Law Seeks to Aid Both Landlord and Tenant

Suppose landlords could charge any rent they can get – but would have to comply with the Borough's housing code before they could impose any rent increases?

That's the nub of a Rent Registration ordinance proposed by Borough Council members Nelson van den Blink and Robert McChesney last week. It will be discussed by Council on Thursday, June 4, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. Both sponsors hope it can be shaped for introduction at Council's June meeting and passed before the present rent leveling ordinance expires June 30.

The draft ordinance provides for a paid person, as now – a Co-ordinator. The ordinance would also set up a Rent Registration Board which could mediate landlord-tenant disputes. The board would have no enforcing power, but it would be a place where landlords and tenants could air their differences before a disinterested group. Perhaps, Mrs. van den Blink believes, this would defuse the problem. Mr. McChesney says most disputes are related to relationships more than to the actual rent charged.

"We want to continue a municipal presence," Mrs. van den Blink explains, "a place where people can come for information, and a place where they can air disputes."

The two Council members began to talk about the ordinance after the first of the two votes when Council voted against continuing a rent-leveling ordinance. Even Council members who had voted against such an ordinance expressed dismay over what they called the "habitability" of some rental units, and over the fact that both tenants and landlords seemed to need a place where they could get information.

For example, there is a state rent control law, but not many tenants know about it. Possibly some tenants would turn to this law if they were aware that it existed.

"The state law says a landlord can't impose an 'unconscionable' increase," Mr. McChesney explains. "If a landlord raises the rent from $350 to $800, the tenant could get a lawyer, refuse to pay the rent and the landlord would have to take the case to the state. A Co-ordinator could tell tenants that kind of thing.

"Also, maybe twice a year, the Borough would announce in the local papers that there is a rent ordinance. It would be an impersonal kind of thing, not just acting when landlords and tenants are at each other's throats."

The 1978 housing code, Mr. McChesney points out, states that a landlord must have a certificate of compliance from the health officer before any apartment or house can be rented. This certificate must be renewed every three years, whether the tenant changes or not.

But the Borough is so short of staff in its health department that the law cannot be enforced: there were 249 rental housing inspections last year, Mr. McChesney has found. The Borough has an estimated 1,900 units.

"Tying a rent increase to health inspections is an attempt to solve two problems," he says.

In some cases, it is acknowledged, both tenant and landlord know there are housing violations. Fixing the place up would be costly, and neither wants that.

"They can agree to say nothing, to live and let live," Mr. McChesney shrugs. "That way, we'd put our manpower only where increases are sought."

PDS Evaluation Program

assign "responsibility that is clearly understood" and employ "uniformity and consistency in the handling of disciplinary matters."

The second called for the development of a "mandatory program in the lower, middle and upper schools on alcohol, tobacco and drug abuse." For at least three faculty members the trustee directives seem to have been enabling resolutions for implementing programs to which they had for some time been giving serious thought.

Pete Jaques came to be head of the PDS middle school from the same position at Moses Brown School in Providence, R.I., which undertook a three-year assessment of what middle school youngsters are as students and as people, and of the school structure into which kids are being asked to fit.

From a personal and professional standpoint, and from his reading of Douglas Heath, a Quaker educator, researcher and psychology professor at Haverford, Mr Jaques feels that the structure of a traditional school like PDS often "makes early adolescent problems harder rather than easier The curriculum doesn't take into account modern theories of adolescent growth and psychology," he says.

The new health education and values program (HEAV) that is just winding up its first year in the PDS middle school is designed to give kids information they need on nutrition, their bodies, alcohol, drugs and sexuality. "We want students to be able to know enough about their own feelings and beliefs to be able to make decisions instead of just sliding into things happening," Mr. Jaques says.

Values Are Not Taught. "We do not teach values," he adds. "For kids, the formation of values has to come from each person's own experiences and family background. We want our students to be clear on what theirs is."

The program involves a once-a-week class in nutrition for all fifth graders. In sixth grade, the year cliques begin to form among girls, students participate in cooperative and competitive games designed to give them a better understanding of the way people interact. In the seventh grade the emphasis, having been outward, turns inward, with the beginning of values clarification and good decision making.

The seventh grade also learns about the whole gamut of drugs, from tobacco, to aspirin, to alcohol, to pot and other drugs. "We try to get them to think about these things in terms of themselves," Mr. Jaques says.

The eighth grade has a once-a-week sex education course for which 10 faculty members were trained by math teacher Alice Alston, who in turn took special training last summer in Maine.

Working in male and female pairs, the 10 teachers co-taught five co-educational groups of eighth graders, using proven methods of barrier breaking, such as "fish bowl" and role playing. The first half of the year focused on sex and human sexuality, the second half on dating behavior

Peer Group Program. Moving up into the upper school, these eighth graders will be the freshmen for whom the first PDS Peer Group Training will go into effect this fall A peer group program has long been an interest of Larry Kuser, director of guidance at PDS, who emphasizes that the program is not counseling or solving problems for freshmen but rather it will be an attempt to create dialogue Some 20 seniors will be given leadership training in group dynamics for once a-week small group discussions involving two seniors for each group of 8-10 ninth graders and a faculty observor.

The topics will be academic, parent and peer pressures as well as the social pressures in drug and alcohol use. The objectives, says Mr Kuser, are better decision making, improved self-image, and more confidence in one's own thoughts and opinions and the ability to express them. Out of the program should also come a greater sense of responsibility to oneself and others — which is getting at the area of trustee directive number three: development "of a climate of caring and respect within the school"

Directive number four, "developing a climate of caring and concern about the broader community or communities outside the school," has long been an interest of Janet Stoltzfus, English and Bible teacher and faculty adviser for the new community service requirement for graduation. "You can learn a lot about your own values by working with different kinds of people in a different environment," Mrs Stoltzfus says

Community service has also been an area of interest to senior Jamie Bonini, who is credited with having pushed a proposal for volunteer work as a graduation requirement through a reluctant student community council and then to the Planning Committee that has to vote on curricular changes Students have worked at NJNPI, Skillman Training School, the Historical Society and the Medical Center, as well as in political campaigns As his third-term senior project, Jamie is evaluating student and faculty opinion on the success of the program in its first year as a requirement

The Parents' Efforts. Meanwhile, the Parents Association has taken seriously directive number five: "Increase the awareness of the parental responsibility for school behavior outside of school." The directive said that this should involve agreement in "standards for school activities and in the parental role in creating more appropriate kinds of peer pressure."

PDS is a school of 861 students who come from widely divergent backgrounds and a wide geographical area. Polly Miller, a Miss Fine's School alumna, PDS trustee and mother of two sons at PDS, was asked to head a values committee of the Parents Association. Initially she thought the committee would be writing a handbook of guidelines for parents, but she soon found that one committee couldn't speak for all parents — nor should one small group tell others what to do

Wanting as much input as possible, the Values Committee held many open meetings at different times of day to give parents a chance to speak their minds about what was good and what was not so good about the school and what they were concerned about in social behavior These concerns were then formulated into a questionnaire which was sent to all parents, one questionnaire for each child in the family

The Values Committee has also sponsored panel discussions on alcoholism and drugs and has reprinted articles on those topics in the Parents Bulletin Mrs Miller has visited schools in other areas to see if and how they set up guidelines for social activities, and she hopes to initiate a parents' council in the Princeton area which would cut across independent and public school lines and involve parents from all the area secondary schools.

Awareness is a Process. Everyone seems to agree that what has been happening at PDS by way of values clarification is on awareness procedure and not unique — other schools, other parents and teachers are dealing with similar problems and thinking up similar solutions

As headmaster Douglas O. McClure sums it up: "The process of taking statements about values set forth in the school philosophy and turning them into specific programs is an extremely difficult task, because you are dealing with intangibles that don't always lend themselves to that kind of programming There is no way we can succeed completely, but we can do a tremendous amount, and what we do is going to be extremely beneficial in the long run."

BUSY SESSION HELD

By Township Committee. Township Committee had a fruitful session last week. An application for state funds for a new passive recreation park was approved, the Cable-TV ordinance was adopted and an ordinance turning Ettl Farm into an office-research park, which the neighbors and Committee objected to, was squashed.

Plans for turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Street extending along the Canal and Stony Brook on both sides of the bridge were originally drawn up in 1977 by Zion and Breen, landscape architects. The park will have a picnicking area, an open field for impromptu games, space for parking, a canoe launch ramp into the Canal and trails for walking through the woods.

Now that other Township Green Acre projects, such as the Mercer Road bike path and the amphitheatre in Community Park North have been completed, the state is receptive to reconsidering the application filed earlier for funds to develop the park.

At the public hearing last Wednesday, which was part of the application procedure, representatives of the Historical Society, the Environmental Commission and the Delaware & Raritan Canal Commission spoke enthusiastically about the project.

Committeeman William Cherry, however, voted against the resolution approving the application. Mr. Cherry cited lack of public enthusiasm for the project in the Township. He pointed out that with development across the canal in West Windsor due to add some 4,200 more people to the area, he was afraid the Township was building "a park for them and not for us."

The revised estimate of the cost of developing the park is $173,000, about double the estimate in 1977. It is hoped that Green Acres will pay for half the cost.

OR-6 Rejected. Members of Committee had already gone on record in disapproval of turning Ettl Farm into an office-research zone as recommended by the Planning Board in the Master Plan. But because a municipality has to make clear its reasons for not ordinancing a Master Plan provision, Committee went through the full procedure of passing the ordinance on first reading, publishing it and holding a public hearing.

Neighbors came forward to speak on their concerns about the 900 cars that OR-6 would add to an already burdened Rosedale Road and for the environment. Jack Wallace, former Township mayor, said that no appropriate traffic studies had been done on Rosedale Road since 1960, when the question of rezoning Ettl Farm had last been turned down. Since that time ETS, Mobil, Squibb, and Wester Electric had all expanded their facilities, he said, and the road would require major rebuilding with major disruption to sewer lines and utility poles to handle traffic from a new OR zone.

Jack Chamberlin, 172 Fairway Drive, found flaws in the methods and conclusions of a 1978 fiscal impact study which said there was a need for more rateables in the Township. Rateables were a major factor in the Planning Board recommendation for OR-6.

In Mr. Chamberlin's mathematics, the increased valuation would be almost the same if the land were to be developed in single-family homes as it would in a single large think-tank. He said that prudent land use planning suggests it is best to use high-value property for residential use and lower-value land for commercial purposes.

Committee concurred, and unanimously rejected the ordinance.

MONEY FOR STUDY?

Of Nielsen Report. A state education official has commended Princeton's school district for the Niels Nielsen report, "Strategy for the 80s" and may be able to find money for a feasibility study, Superintendent Paul Houston

It Might Have Been

School officials were looking back in time this week and recalling how Gregory Anrig, the new president of Educational Testing Service, almost became Princeton's Superintendent of Schools.

It was in 1967. Borough and Township residents had voted in June, 1966, to regionalize their two school systems. A nation-wide search was made during succeeding months for a permanent superintendent.

"Dr. Anrig came here for an interview and impressed us all very much," recalls Mrs. George Fremon, who was president of the regional school board at the time.

"I called him to offer him the job. He called back later to say he'd been offered a job with the U.S. Department of Education. We were all very disappointed. We didn't have anyone in line for second choice, so we had to go back to the drawing-board."

The board then invited Dr Philip E. McPherson to be superintendent and he accepted. Dr. McPherson was superintendent for nine years, resigning in July, 1976 told the school board last week.

Catherine Havrilesky, assistant commissioner for curriculum and instruction, invited Dr. Houston to Trenton for a discussion of the report, the superintendent said. The meeting was set up by Dr. Robert Boose, Mercer County superintendent of schools.

"She commended us for looking at problems in different ways, even for saying the unspeakable," Dr. Houston reported He emphasized that she did not endorse the report, but had been "positive" in her praise. In addition, the superintendent told the board, she is examining Mr. Nielsen's report to find out what it may contain that is contrary to present law, suggesting that in many cases the applicable laws might be out-dated and in need of change.

"She pointed out that she cannot encourage us to break laws or to ignore state mandates," Dr. Houston said, "but she said she might be able to facilitate things for a school system trying to improve itself"

This summer, Dr. Houston said, Princeton will explore possibilities for funding the studies required by the report, in the fall, the board may begin long-range studies based on some of Mr Nielsen's recommendations, Dr Houston said.

STREET SIGNS STOLEN

Two PU Students Charged. Two Princeton University students, Jonathan P. Nicholas, 18, 311 1901 Hall, and William B. Haynes, 19, 314 1901 Hall, have been charged with the theft of Borough street signs.

Ptl. Michael Taylor responded to a 2:08 call Tuesday morning that someone was stealing signs at the Princeton-Patton Avenue intersection. Assisted by Township Ptl. Anthony Gaylord, Ptl. Taylor arrested Nicholas and Haynes on Prospect Avenue near Murray Place. Police said that the pair had the signs in their possession at the time of their arrest.

Joseph R. Davis, 33, of Trenton, was apprehended by proctors last week and charged with trespassing in the Firestone Library on the university campus.

For the second time in six days, Geoffrey M Houston, 24, 459 Walnut Lane, has been arrested by Township police and charged with inhaling toxic fumes.

Houston was observed by Ptl. John Clausen in the Princeton Shopping Center Mall spraying paint into a cloth and then holding the cloth over his mouth. He was taken to headquarters to be processed and later sent to the Mercer County Correction Center in lieu of $50 bail. Houston faces a court hearing June 23

Richard S. Rush, 113 Henry Hall, Princeton University, has been charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

His car was stopped by Borough police at 12:32 Saturday morning on Nassau Street near Tulane for a noisy muffler and having a N.J. inspection sticker on his windshield and Virginia license plates

During their investigation, Ptl Randy Sutton and Ptl. Taylor allegedly observed the drug in plain view on the front seat

Parade on Friday

Princeton's Memorial Day Parade will form on Princeton Avenue at 6:15 Friday evening and step off promptly at 7 for the march up Nassau Street to the Battle Monument and Borough Hall The parade is an annual event sponsored by American Legion Posts 76 and 218, who will conduct ceremonies at the monument in honor of those killed in World Wars I and II, the Korean Conflict and in Vietnam

The parade will be led by the Borough Township police chiefs, honored guests in cars and officials from both municipalities. The McGuire Air Force Band and the Volunteer Drum and Bugle Corps of Lambertville will set the pace

In addition to Princeton Post 76 and 218, American Legion Posts from Hamilton Township, Trenton, Hopewell and Lawrenceville will be marching with their color guards

Jonathan L. Rosenthal, 20, 318 Dodds Lane, has been charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance — a prescription drug out of its original container — after he was arrested early Sunday morning in a Tulane E. parking lot for another offense.

Mary C. Bolster, 21, 124 Parkside Drive, was charged with obstruction as Ptl Sutton and Ptl. Taylor were attempting to arrest Rosenthal. Both were later released.

HUN STUDENTS INJURED

When Car Hits Tree, Overturns, Three Hun School students remain in serious condition in Princeton Medical Center five days after their car struck a tree on Quaker Road and overturned.

James P. McNamara, 19, of Rome, N.Y., is in critical condition, a spokesman at Princeton Medical Center reported Tuesday. The driver, John McGee, 18, Wynnewood, Pa., was scheduled to undergo surgery on Tuesday. His condition was described as satisfactory, while that of Joseph Goulazian, 17, of Yardley, Pa., was listed as serious

All three were trapped inside their 1973 station wagon "It was a mess," commented Township Traffic Safety Officer Sgt. Anthony Nini "The car was flattened out It was a tough time getting them out" Sgt. Nini added that the Princeton First Aid Squad spent more than an hour, using the "Jaws of Life" machine to extract the victims "The First Aid Squad did a helluva job," he said

The accident took place shortly before midnight Thursday According to police, the car was traveling on Quaker Road on a straight stretch heading inward U.S. 1 when for some reason it left the roadway It traveled 141 feet and struck an ash tree measuring 11 feet in circumference

The car then veered diagonally across Quaker Road, leaving 18 feet of skid marks as it leaned to one side It then overturned, coming to rest 37 feet from the tree upside down on top of a concrete culvert which caved in the roof on the passenger's side

Apparently, the car became airborne after striking the tree and flipped over, Sgt Nini reported Police, he added, haven't been able to talk to any of the victims All sustained multiple injuries The incident is being in-

Collins Development to Proceed in Phases on Palmer Square; Overall Plan, Traffic, Subjects of First Design Review Report

Concerns about traffic around a new post office -- approximately at the foot of Palmer Square West -- and surprise that the Palmer Square owners say they will provide 58 more spaces for cars than required, occupied the Environmental Design Review Committee Thursday night when it held its second meeting with Collins Development to talk about an expanded Palmer Square.

The EDRC will now send a report to the Planning Board. Collins' lawyer, Thomas C. Jamieson, said the developer plans to go ahead in phases. This report will deal with the overall plan and the traffic study. Landscaping, floor plans and elevations will be later.

Eager to move "as fast as we can," the developers hope to start with residential construction facing Robeson Place, Collins vice-president James Harvie III told the EDRC. Linked with this would be the 85,000-square-foot office building and expansion of the Nassau Inn. Second in line would be construction of new retail space and a restaurant and third, the residences facing Chambers.

He explained that the buildings have their own foundations and do not sit on the deck. This means they can be built separately, with the deck connecting them.

Architect Alan Chimacoff, who had sharply criticized the deck concept and related details when the EDRC last met, has since conferred with Collins, Mr. Harvie said. He added that some of Mr. Chimacoff's criticisms were based on "misunderstandings," others were "legitimate concerns." He told the EDRC that "worthwhile suggestions" had been made in discussions with Mr. Chimacoff.

Before any other construction starts, however, the Chambers Street garage must be built so that parking on "the Hulfish site" (the old Playhouse parking lot) will have some place to go during construction. Mr. Jamieson, reminding the EDRC that the Borough and Eric Mihan own this Chambers Street property, said the structure would be a municipal garage. The Borough will control its size and financing, he said, and discussions on both points are still going on.

Do Chung, Collins' architect, told the EDRC the garage would be 25 feet above John Street at mid-point between Hulfish and the southern garage wall. By comparison, the Pickering Building across Chambers is 44 feet high EDRC's Robert Englebrecht exclaimed over "fierce!" traffic now at the post office, and asked how Collins would handle boxholders who park, run in and run out again. EDRC's William H Walker II observed that, under Mr. Chung's plans, pedestrians would have to walk by the post office loading dock.

The post office likes the location, Mr. Jamieson remarked, and Mr. Chung is working on problems of parking, pedestrian traffic and the loading dock.

Mr. Harvie told the EDRC his firm had asked the Borough to recommend a traffic consultant, and had chosen the PRC Voorhees firm on the Borough's recommendation. In addition, he said, the firm had conferred frequently with Borough engineer George Olexa, asking advice on procedure.

When the 58 extra spaces came into view, Mr. Walker suggested Collins be asked to cut back parking — perhaps reducing the garage by one whole floor, and Dr. Frank remarked that "more parking sucks in more cars over marginal roads."

Mr. Harvie suggested the final result may hinge on what the Borough plans to do about its Spring Street garage, and he added with feeling, "At $7,500 to $10,000 per space, we don't want to build a parking garage any bigger than we have to."

Moped Mishap. A 15-year old Westerly Road resident has been charged with having no driver's license for a moped and no insurance, after she was involved in an accident last week in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Police report that the driver, in changing a package of candy from one hand to the other, jerked the handle bars, causing her to lose control and fall. She was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the leg, and then turned over to her mother, pending further action by Township juvenile authorities.

Ten-year old Shawn Miller, 42 Redding Circle, sustained minor leg injuries after he failed to stop his bicycle for a stop sign and struck the side of a car Thursday at the interesection of Birch Avenue and John Street.

The driver was identified as Pamela P. Greathouse of 9 Pheasant Hill Road. There were no charges by Ptl Kaminski.

WOMAN DIES IN FALL

From Balcony. The death of the wife of a Princeton University mathematics instructor, who either fell or jumped to her death from a third-floor balcony of the Hibben Apartments of Faculty Road, is still being investigated by Det. Samuel Bianco of the Township police, university authorities and the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

Saundra Rosen, 30, Apartment 3M, was found lying on the sidewalk near the east entrance. She sustained massive head and body injuries, police said, and was pronounced dead at Princeton Medical Center at 11:47 last Tuesday morning by Dr. Thomas Cortelyou. Police were called at 11:05, after a woman visiting the apartments discovered Mrs. Rosen on the sidewalk.

The victim's husband, Alan D. Unell, told Det. Samuel Bianco that he was in their apartment when his wife left to take a walk. Det. Bianco said that he believed Mrs. Rosen then walked about 100 feet along the third floor balcony before she fell over the nearly five-foot railing to the sidewalk, approximately 22 feet below.

There were no witnesses, Det. Bianco said. Police added that Mrs. Rosen had reportedly been under the care of a psychiatrist. They declined to say whether the incident is being considered an accident or possible suicide.

THREE ARE FINED

In Township Traffic Court. Three Princeton area residents were fined last week by Judge Sydney Souter in Township traffic court.

ALARM IS SOUNDED

For Mattress Fire. A general alarm was sounded at 1:46 Saturday afternoon and then cancelled nine minutes later for a fire in a shed behind P.J.'s Pancake House, 154 Nassau Street.

Police report that a mattress in the shed had caught fire and was destroyed. There was minimal damage to the shed. All Princeton fire companies responded.

Township police responded to the report of a fire early last week in a home at 90 Bertrand Drive. It had been extinguished upon the arrival of Ptl. John Seeley.

The fire was confined to the top of a kitchen stove, where grease beneath a rear heating element had ignited. There was no damage.

OFF TO BOSTON

Middle School "House." If you've raised $5,600 by holding a book fair, giving an international dinner, selling magazine subscriptions and candy, you're entitled to spend it along the Freedom Trail. That's where 93 eighth-graders from House Two, John Witherspoon Middle School, are this Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

They will travel the Freedom Trail in Massachusetts, visiting Lexington and Concord, Salem, Old Ironsides, the Peabody Museum, Bunker Hill, the Museum of Science and the Essex Institute. They will stay at Boston University.

No group from the Middle School has ever gone so far nor stayed so long, according to English teacher Janet Stellenwerf. Twelve adults will accompany the students. Teachers for the House are Phyllis Caras, science; Nancy Jernick, math; John Holpp, social studies and Ann Thomas, aide.

Ice Cream Truck Alert

Township police wish to remind drivers that under a law in effect since February, motorists must come to a full stop when approaching ice cream trucks and then proceed no faster than 15 miles per hour. The stop and proceed law applies to traffic in either direction.

Drivers must also yield to pedestrians approaching and departing the trucks. The trucks, in turn, must be equipped with front and rear flashing lights and a stop sign must extend horizontally from the left side of the vehicle.

ROOM IS LOOTED

In Green Hall. A room in Green Hall on the Princeton University campus was looted last week of camera and television equipment.

Taken sometime between Thursday and April 15 were a video cassette recorder, a color TV monitor and a video camera with two lenses with a combined value of $1,994. Also missing are microphone cables and a tripod. There was no forced entry.

A 35mm camera worth $800 and two lenses valued at $665 were stolen last week from a student's room in the New Graduate College. There were no signs of forced entry in the theft, which was reported at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

An intruder entered an open window to gain access to an office in the 20 Nassau building during the weekend. Missing from a small grey strong box are five $20 bills, $10 in stamps and $2 in change.

A Chestnut Street home was entered Sunday between 5 and 10 p.m. by way of an unlocked kitchen door. Police said that $10 was stolen from the top of a dresser. Police added that the intruder left behind a half-eaten hoagie sandwich and a purple T-shirt.

A student's purse containing a wallet and $90 and credit cards was stolen Friday afternoon from a room in Taylor Hall on the Westminster Choir College campus, and four rooms in Lambert House, the nurses' quarters at Princeton Medical Center, were forced open. Taken from one room was $10, a watch and $4 in change from another, $6.25 from a third and gold earrings, a gold watch and $20 from a fourth. Police say it is not known how the intruder entered Lambert House.

In the Township, police report that a State Road home was entered Thursday and completely ransacked but nothing appears to be missing. Entry was gained by prying open a rear door on the north side of the house. Ptl. Robert Buchanan investigated.

THEFT REPORT

Four Bicycles Stolen. Borough police reported the theft last week of four bicycles, including a $1,200 model.

Police said that a 10-speed Trek bike, valued at $1,200, has been chained to a tree near the Quadrangle Club on Ivy Lane. The victim is a university student.

Two 10-speed models were taken from the grounds of Princeton High School from an area near the sidewalk next to Walnut Lane and a third from a field behind the high school. One was valued at $200.

A student's brown leather wallet was stolen last week between noon and 1 p.m. from a desk in Firsstone Library. It contained $20.

Township police report the theft of a CB radio valued at $39.95 and an FM converter worth $15 from under the dashboard of a car of a Pennington resident that had been parked last week in the garage at Princeton Medical Center. The car's left side window had been left open, police said.

A 14K gold pen and pencil set valued at $45 was stolen last week from Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center. Two suspects had been seen near the display.

One is described as a hispanic, about 18, short, with a beard and goatee, wearing a green jacket; the second as about 21, black, tall, wearing a brown leather coat and cap.

EUELL WINS

School Board Settles. A six-year legal battle ended this week with the announcement of a $49,840 settlement of the case of science teacher Virginia Euell against the school board. Ms. Euell will receive $25,000 this July and $24,840 next July.

In addition, she will be assigned to the combined position of high school assistant principal, and high school science teacher. Superintendent Paul Houston said she would probably be assigned to implementing the new graduation requirements at the high school and to working with students who need individualized attention.

The settlement came in a conference on May 14 before an administrative law judge in Trenton. It concludes all the legal disputes between Ms. Euell and the board and recognizes her administrative status with the board.

Ms. Euell was appointed principal of the Middle School in May, 1974, having served as acting principal. She was not appointed the following year, which meant she was denied tenure as a principal, although she had tenure as a teacher. She took her case to the Commissioner of Education in May, 1975. At the same time, she filed charges against the school board with the state's Division of Civil Rights, charging that she was not named to the principalship because she is a woman and black.

The board, in agreeing to this settlement, said in a statement that it believes it will save money, both in the legal costs of continuing appeals, and possible damages.

"Her legal position was found to be sound, and ours isn't," said Dr. Houston.

MATH TEAM ON TOP

At Princeton High. Four first-place awards and a variety of other honors add up to a triumphant academic year for the PHS Math Team. Members are John Sullivan, Michael Crystal, Young Kim, Jessica Liu, Michele Lien, Eunice Lin, Steven Proshan, David Proshan, Ben Thompson, Ariella Gross, Eve Ostriker, Abraham Hsuan, Grace Cheng, Tsutomo Shimumuro, Jennifer Lung, Jon Poritz and David Witonsky. Faculty Advisor is Nabil Taha.

Students have participated in the Delaware Valley Math League, the Colonial Valley Conference, the Atlantic-Pacific Conference, the Continental League, the Fourth Annual High School Math Contest and the New Jersey Math League.

In the Delaware Valley League, the team won monthly meets and first place for the year. This league conducts six monthly meets which consist of a ten-question test. The top three scorers' point totals are summed, giving the team total out of thirty. The team with the highest total wins the monthly contest, and a trophy is circulated among the winning schools.

A cumulative score is kept for the year and a trophy is awarded for yearly achievement. No math above Trigonometry is needed for this one-hour test. At the end of the year, students are treated to a picnic and a guest lecturer

The CVC is similar to the Delaware Valley League. Three tests are given during the year The top five scores are counted; a plaque is circulated for the winner each month PHS won the conference

In the Atlantic-Pacific Conference, PHS is first in New Jersey and thirteenth in the nation. This event consists of a nationally administered test conducted at the high school This half hour, six-question test is given six times during the year.

Michael Crystal, John Perkins, and John Sullivan were high scorers in an eight-question, forty-minute test administered to calculus classes that participated in the Continental League. PHS

The LANDAU Philosophy
(It's Really Quite Simple)
PART XXXVII

The Problem: Should there be a charge for tailoring alterations?

Traditionally, stores in the men's industry do not charge for alterations; stores catering to women traditionally do charge. Why the conflict in tradition? We don't know. A lot of explanations have been offered, but none make any sense.

The Landau Solution: We will no longer charge for alterations.

When we began offering alterations in 1976, we followed tradition and came up with a separate scale of charges for purchases under or over a certain amount.

As time passed we realized this policy was ridiculous. The customer purchasing a single pair of black slacks, should, we thought, be entitled to the same services as someone purchasing an entire wardrobe.

Now that we fully understand the alterations situation, we are breaking tradition, and revising our policy

Anything you purchase from Landau's or Landau's Too will be altered to your satisfaction, at NO CHARGE.

We set our policies for what we think are good reasons ... and if it turns out that we are wrong, we change those policies. No if's, and's, or but's. It's that simple placed first in New Jersey and fifteenth in the nation in this competition.

At the Fourth Annual High School Math Contest held at Stockton State College, the highest team score was attained by PHS, and John Sullivan was the highest scorer. Those who represented PHS were John Sullivan, Jon Poritz, Michele Lien, Tautomo Shimumure and Steven Proshan.

In the New Jersey Mathematics League, PHS is first in the state. This monthly competition consists of a half-hour, six-problem test given at PHS.

The Mathematics Association of America test is administered each year at the high school. As a result of his performance in this competition, John Sullivan was invited to participate in the Tenth United States of America Mathematical Olympiad.

For enrichment, the Math Team attended College Mathematics Day at Montclair State College. A series of lectures and workshops in math were conducted.

Faculty advisor Nabil Taha says the math events are open to all regardless of ability, there is competition for students at all levels of math.

GUILTY!

8 Demonstrators Fined $250. Four hours and twenty minutes after the hearing had begun, Township Judge Sydney Sauter last week fined eight protestors at a May 6 demonstration outside the Institute for Defense Analyses $250 and sentenced each to 30 days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended.

Seven of those found guilty, including five Princeton University students and a mathematics instructor at the university, have announced that they intend to file an appeal. They have ten days in which to do so. A week later, on Tuesday, the Township court clerk reported that no appeal has been received.

One of the defendants, Carol B. Steinberg, 110 Linden Lane, has made arrangements with Township court to pay the fine. The maximum fine for obstructing a public highway is $300.

Seven of the defendants had argued in court last week that international law and international peace treaties, which they claim IDA's research on nuclear weapons and deployment have violated, justified their act of civil disobedience. The eight had linked arms to form a human chain blocking Thanet Road, which leads to the IDA building which houses the Communications Research Division of IDA.

Meanwhile, on Saturday, a group estimated at 17 to 18 by police had a picnic on the Thanet Road circle to discuss the planned appeal. There was no confrontation between the group, organized by the Princeton Mobilization for Survival, which sponsored the demonstration on May 6 and eight Township police officers who looked on.

The group left less than two hours later around 2:15. "They were very orderly and cleaned up as they had promised," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

Princeton University professor Steven Slaby, the main speaker at the May 6 demonstration, also attended Saturday's picnic. IDA employees, he maintained, were shaping military policy by agreeing to work on nuclear weapons research.

The announced goal of the protestors has been to force IDA to leave Princeton, where it has been located since 1959. But Lee Neuwirth, IDA director of personnel and an observer at Saturday's picnic, countered, "Why should we move?

Tiger Park Is Spruced Up with Holly; Statue Is Scrubbed; Trees to Remain

YEWS FOR HOLLY: These yews being removed from Tiger Park at the south end of Palmer Square, will be replaced by low-growing Japanese holly, to be planted at the corners only. The holly, 24 to 30 inches high, is a hardy plant, easy to maintain, says Kale Nurseries, in charge of the project for Collins Development.

The trees will remain. That was the assurance from Kale Nurseries on Tuesday as their crews removed scraggly yews (see photo) and started the re-furbishing of Tiger Park.

By the end of this week, Johnson Atelier is scheduled to begin sand blasting the bronze tiger. The statue and base will then be grouted and "re-patined." This will retain the tiger's original sombre majesty, only cleaner and more together.

The refurbishing is the start of Collins Development's work on Palmer Square. Ironically, the new owners of the Square are starting on a piece of land that isn't theirs. Tiger Park is owned by the Borough, but municipal officials and Collins' staff have been conferring about re-plantings and the changes Collins wants to make.

Bluestone walks will be relaid to eliminate trip-up places. Grey pebbles—regarded as too "driveway" in appearance—will be replaced by beige pebbles.

Kale will remove about a dozen miscellaneous shrubs like azaleas and shrub roses and some ground-cover plants. Annuals will be planted in these areas, according to season.

Eventually, there will be new benches and more benches. The number depends on how big the new ones are. And trash bins will be replaced.

The strip between sidewalk and curb, maintained until now by the Garden Club of Princeton, probably will be maintained by Kale; in appearance, however, it will remain the same.

Shrubs removed in the refurbishing will be transplanted to other Borough-owned properties, according to Robert Cucci of Kale.

Fred Carman's Latin Classes Popular at PHS; Enrollment Increasing after Years of Decline

"Perfer et obdura; dolor hic tibi proderit olim."

It's Ovid, and it means, "Be patient and tough; some day this pain will be useful to you."

Fred Carman grins, "Yeah, Latin is hard, but not that hard!"

He learned it in eighth grade and has been teaching it for 26 years, 22 of them at Princeton High. After a slump from the golden age when Glenda Richards, Harriet Peterson and Fred Carman had 348 students among them, Latin study declined (Lat: declinare, "to go down") at PHS. In 1973-74, only 48 students took Latin. This year, there are twice as many, and one reason is Mr. Carman himself.

"I'm taking Latin because it's a super course," one student said (Lat: super: "above," "over"). "I learn lots of big words and I also take it because Mr. Carman is a great guy."

Other students talk about "widening my already considerably impressive English vocabulary" ... because I want to be a lawyer ... because I want to be a doctor" ... and most candid of all, "because Mommy and Daddy made me, because it could help me on the PSAT and SAT (Engl: Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test, Scholastic Aptitude Test) and maybe it is even interesting."

You can take four years of Latin at PHS. If you want to study the language, you must wait until you get to high school because it is not offered at the lower grades. This year, there is one fourth-year student. He sits in with the third-year class, and does work on his own. Next year, there will be six fourth-year students.

Grammar Then Caesar. Latin study hasn't changed much. You still concentrate (Lat: centrum: "center") on grammar in first year and the start of second year. Then comes Caesar ("we use a textbook that adds some acts from the plays of Plautus," Mr. Carman says); then Cicero, "the number-one prose man," and finally, in the fourth year, Virgil, "the biggie in poetry."

"I think one reason more kids are taking Latin is the adverse publicity of low SAT scores," Mr. Carman believes. "You'll find seniors taking first-year Latin. They figure if they know more about the roots of words, it will help them."

A colloquial man (Lat: colloqui: "to converse"), warmly regarded by his students — he coached girls' softball until this year and is timer for basketball at both the high school and Princeton University — Mr. Carman says, "I pretty well know kids because I'm a parent myself.

"If you are a parent, you know how to handle kids. I know how far I can push them. I know I can tease some, and they don't think I'm picking on them, but I know I can't tease others. Some, I can get to talk about sports, and that makes the Latin easier for them."

Classics Major. It was Miss Plau, eighth-grade Latin teacher, who got Mr. Carman interested in the language. She urged him to attend the university of Michigan, her own college, so that he could study with her teacher. And he did, majoring in classical studies.

"But I didn't like Greek. What an abomination!" (Lat: abominari: "to shun as a bad omen").

As a teacher, he uses himself as well as the text.

"I'm not an AV type (Hybrid Edu: Lat: audire, "to hear"; visus, "vision"; "audio-visual). "But if you just used the book, it wouldn't be good. For instance, I'll ask them when Caesar was due in downtown Rome. Things like that. I use my mouth, and I use my wits."

"Without a good teacher," one student said, "Latin would be boring!"

"What we are doing here contributes more to world peace than what they are pursuing. You preserve peace by being strong militarily."

He added that the anti-IDA demonstrators should lobby politicians rather than IDA. The Institute, he said, has no role in forming national policy decisions.

PCH HEARING SET

For This Thursday, Princeton Community Housing, Inc., will appear before the Borough Zoning Board this Thursday at 8. The meeting will be held in Borough Hall.

PCH will present to the board its proposal for an 89-unit apartment house for the elderly and handicapped on the parking lot next to the public library. The non-profit organization needs a waiver of parking requirements and an adjustment of the open space requirements. If the parking waiver is granted, the open space needs will be met.

$50,000 TO SENIORS

For Gym. Mercer County has given $50,000 to the Borough for a new roof on the Borough Hall gym. The cinder-block structure has been turned over to senior citizen use by the municipality. Money will also pay for replacement of unneeded windows, an energy-saving measure.

Meanwhile, the Princeton Senior Citizens Club will meet for the first time in the gym this Friday. Although repairs and renovations are not yet complete, the club has a temporary certificate of occupancy from the Borough allowing the meeting to take place.

RCA has donated to the Club a public-address system. The portable system can be used anywhere in the gym.

Township Costs of $2,000 for IDA Demonstration May Be Recovered from Demonstrators' Fines

"It's costly," agreed Chief Frederick Porter this week as he began to total up overtime costs incurred by police for court time and extra duty created by the IDA demonstration this month.

In round figures it is about $2,000 and Chief Porter says he doesn't know where the money is coming from. "That's up to the administrator's office."

During the May 6 demonstration, the Township's full complement of 23 men was on the scene. Those not regularly assigned to duty that day received time and a half. The cost: about $900, figures Chief Porter.

Then there was the cost of mutual aid for police from the West Windsor, Lawrence, Ewing and Hopewell Township police departments, plus the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office. Another $900.

To that add the cost of four hours plus that the eight-man arrest team had to spend in Township court last week. Using $14.61 per hour for time and a half for a patrolman, Chief Porter added another $467. Then there was the added overtime cost of Saturday's 2½ hour peaceful picnic on Thanet Road in which eight officers were present "just in case." Another $300.

It totals more than $2,100. If the Township collects the $250 fine that each of the eight defendants was assessed by Judge Sydney Souter—seven have said they intend to appeal—the Township would realize $2,000.

HOSPITAL WON'T REPLY

To State Letter. On the advice of the New Jersey Hospital Association, the Medical Center at Princeton has decided not to reply to a letter from the state Department of Health regarding expenditures for anti-union activities.

Dennis Doody, Center president, said this week that the Association has informed Dr. Bruce C. Vladeck, assistant commissioner of health planning and resources development, that his letter to the Medical Center was incorrect, that it was not appropriate for institutions to reply to his request.

Dr. Vladeck wrote the Center two months ago, citing a ruling that a hospital's expenses for anti-union activities are not "allowable" costs, and asking the Center to report all such costs. The decision applies to hospitals that take Medicare patients.

He said this week that the hospital rate-setting commission will be advised of the Center's position, and that the Center could be penalized financially.

The ruling makes a distinction between the costs of "legitimate collective bargaining" and anti-union expenses. The hospital has been retaining the law firm of Jackson, Lewis, Schnitzler and Krupman in its continuing dispute with the hospital security guards' union.

In a parallel development, Center security guard Dennis Papara said he has sent to the U.S. Department of Labor copies of Dr. Vladeck's letter, press clippings referring to the Center's law firm, National Labor Relations Board documents and Center trustee letters. Mr. Papara said that a 1959 labor-management reporting disclosure act requires a similar reporting of anti-union expenses.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Drunk Driving. Princeton police last week charged two more drivers with driving while under the influence of alcohol.

David M. Hill, 35, 135 Texas Avenue, Trenton, was charged after striking two parked cars and three motorcycles at 9 p.m. Friday in front of Zinder's, 102 Nassau Street.

Hill, police said, had backed his truck into a car parked directly behind him. The latter bumped the first of three motorcycles parked side by side, the last of which fell and struck the hood of another parked car. All three cycles were damaged and had to be towed away.

Robert J. Klaiber, 55, 6 Cotswold, Princeton, was charged by Ptl. John Seeley, after the officer observed Mr. Klaiber fail to stop for a stop sign at Bunn Drive late Thursday night and drive away on Ewing Street at a high rate of speed in an erratic manner. He is scheduled to appear in court June 23.

If You've Got a Tiger By the Tail Landau Wants It for Window Display

Landau is moving to the big cats. Not that the 114 Nassau shop has abandoned kittens -- (Landau abandoning a kitten?) —it's just that Princeton University Reunions means "tigers," so Landau's has decided to fill its windows with "the largest collection of tigers anywhere in the world."

Well, anywhere on Nassau. Guinness Book of Records, please note.

To achieve this, the shop needs help. Your help, needless to say. Lend your worn, stuffed cuddly tigers; your sleek hand-carved marble tiger from India (actually, Robert Landau already has one of those, but he'll take another); the hand-carved tiger you brought back from that trip to the Ozarks (he has one of these, too); the toy tiger on wheels once pulled by a member of the Class of '39

You get the idea.

If there is a story with your tiger, Robert Landau will be even happier. The story will be placed in the window and keyed to the actual tiger in the display, so everybody can read about it.

Take your tiger and its story to the store, or call Mr Landau at 924-3375. You may take it also to Dan White at Maclean House on the University campus (that's the one on Nassau next to the Presbyterian church Tigers will be in the window June 2 through 9

Newcomers may not know that Mr Landau devotes a window to live kittens each Christmas. You "buy" a kitten and the money goes to SAVE, the small-animal organization.

Will he accept a live tiger? Try him and see.

FETE TO FEATURE RUN

A 10-Km Event. The 4th Annual 10-Kilometre Run will again be held at the Fabled Fete, the annual fund-raising day for the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation, on Saturday, June 13 on Washington Road.

The 6.2 mile race will begin at 10 at the Fete grounds and follow a scenic route through Princeton back to the Fete. Runners from many parts of the East coast are expected to participate.

Princeton Bank will give the first 500 entrants o mug printed with the bank and race logos. Medals will be awarded to the first three winners in each class. A manufacturer of athletic equipment is donating merchandise prizes.

Registration forms are available at Princeton Bank and Trust, area merchants, YM-YWCA or from Rich and Mimi Ballard, 28 Mason Drive, 924-8631.

NEW "WAY" AGENCY

United Way Adds "Womanspace." Womanspace, an agency which provides emergency shelter for women and their children who are victims of domestic violence, has been accepted into the United Way-Princeton Area Communities. It will receive its first funding from the United Way in 1982.

The 24-hour emergency shelter is for women 18 years of age or older, and their children, providing counseling, information and referral services as well as shelter. Last year, the agency served 55 women and children from the United Way's service area. The agency gives priority to women who live in Mercer County.

"We are pleased and honored to have Womanspace as a part of the United Way family of agencies," said Pamela Kelsey, this year's campaign chairman.

"This agency has provided security and professional help for more than 1,800 women and their children, and it has helped 2,000 other women over

Engineer Appointed

Walter L. Wheeler, 31, who has been working in an engineering firm in Atlanta, Ga., has been appointed Township Engineer effective June 1. He succeeds Baghwan Das, who resigned at the end of 1980

Mr. Wheeler earned his undergraduate degree in civil engineering at Drexel University in Philadelphia and a master's degree, also in civil engineering, from Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta He is a licensed engineer in Georgia and will be working here under a temporary permit issued by New Jersey under a reciprocity arrangement until the formalities are completed for his New Jersey license

Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini said that Mr Wheeler was selected from among 25 or 30 applicants Although he has not been a municipal engineer, he has done exactly the same kinds of things in his work for engineering companies that he would have done in a municipal position, Mr Nini said.

Wondering What to Read? Here Are Some Tips

(From time to time, Caroline Champlin, a member of the staff of the Princeton Public Library, offers suggestions for library patrons.)

At some point almost all of us have found ourselves in a library, surrounded by books, wondering what to read. Librarians are no exception, but they know tricks of the trade to solve the problem. Here are some of the books they use when inspiration fails them.

Without a doubt mysteries are the most popular books in the Princeton Public Library. It is almost impossible to satisfy a mystery lover's appetite for more of a favorite author. Appealing alternatives could come, however, from Jacques Barzun's book, "A Catalogue of Crime," which has more than 800 pages of writers and titles with brief descriptions and evaluations. Remember that in the library, mysteries are singled out from other fiction by a lurid red skull on the spine of the book.

Science fiction fans can find ideas in "Anatomy of Wonder," which lists and describes the best in SF with stars for the truly outstanding books. The library puts a "cosmos" symbol on the spines of SF books to help you find them in the collection.

If you want a novel set in France during the Middle Ages and have read all of Zoe Oldenbourg's books, or want to read them but can't remember her name, you can turn to the World Historical Fiction Guide or to the Guide to Historical Fiction, both of which are selective, descriptive book lists grouped by time and place.

Fiction Catalog pulls all these genres together between two covers and adds many others. Basically, it is a subject index to good fiction in English. So if you were interested in stories about sisters or society or surgeons, you would look in the index to find the list of titles, then turn to the main author entries to find out about the plot and style. A Guide to the Best Fiction is very similar, but covers foreign fiction translated into English as well.

Did you know that Winston Churchill wrote novels and that one of them, "The Crisis," was the number one best-seller of 1901? If you are curious to know what the other best-sellers of the past have been, "80 Years of Best Sellers" lists them from 1895 to 1975, and tells you what they are by subject as well.

If you are bent on improving your mind, "Great Books of the Western World" gives you the literary establishment in 54 volumes. Too daunting? Then try "Books that Changed the World," which discusses the influence of books on mankind, from the Bible through "Vindication of the Rights of Women" to "Silent Spring."

"Books that Changed America" is a similar work.

On a less lofty level, "Good Reading" is an introduction to one hundred "significant" books, not necessarily the best or the greatest but ones that readers have found consistently rewarding.

This is just a sampling of the many books that can serve as your 'reader's adviser'. The staff in the library will help you use them or show you special subject book lists. Next time you draw a blank, use a book to inspire you.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

THE LAWN IN THE SHADE OF THE TREE!

with Sam Di Turo

Woodwinds Associates

The secret to growing grass under a shade tree is balance. your trees and the grass beneath them are in competition for both food and sunshine. The trick is to try to give each its share!

When a tree is shallow rooted, it robs your lawn of the food and moisture you so carefully supply. If you're not specifically feeding the trees, the roots grow toward the surface to get what they need. The answer, then, is to feed the tree, using a well balanced tree food injected directly into the area of the roots, this will help develop the roots at their proper level. (However, don't stop feeding the grass!)

To balance the sunshine a tree can be thinned by pruning, so that sunlight will filter through to the grass. A good practice, too, is to raise the branch level by pruning away lower limbs which won't be missed anyway.

One or two other things to keep in mind. As the weather gets hotter this summer, and especially if we don't get rain, be very sure that you do not cut your grass too short. The recommended ideal height for grass is 2-2½ inches, when you cut at greater heights, your grass tends to grow at a slower rate, so it's less work in the long run! Remember to keep grass free of leaves in the fall most grasses cannot stand a heavy covering of leaves.

If all else fails, you can always consider a ground cover beneath a tree which provides dense shade. Pachysandra often does much better than Periwinkle or English Ivy, and is most attractive as well.

WOODWINDS is always happy to answer any question you may have concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. please call us at 924-3500

GIVEN NEW POST

At Hun School, Peter Savidge, Dean of Students at The Hun School, member of the faculty since 1966, and alumnus in the class of 1962, has been named alumni secretary.

In his new post, Mr. Savidge will work closely with members of the Alumni Council, whose officers include Arthur R. Sypek Jr., president, Holt Murray Jr., first vice president, James W. Firestone, second vice-president, and Thomas J. Valeri Jr., treasurer.

A graduate of Rutgers University, Mr. Savidge returned to Hun as an economics teacher and coach. In 1972 he was appointed Dean of Students and in 1979, Director of Summer Programs, two positions he continues to hold.

Remembered for his athletic accomplishments as a student at Hun, Mr. Savidge was co-captain, with his twin brother Paul, of the football and wrestling teams, as well as captain of the lacrosse team. At Rutgers he was elected captain of the football and lacrosse teams, was named to the All-East Conference football team, and earned All-American honors in lacrosse for three years. In 1966 he received the Coursen Memorial Award as Rutgers' top athlete of the year.

GREENHOUSE SPA: This attractive greenhouse at The Energy Warehouse acts as a solar collector, creating a sunny atmosphere for plants and a spa. Richard Davis, partner in the firm, is seated on the deck of a hot tub, which offers many relaxing benefits. The solar photovoltaic cell behind him converts sunlight to electricity and operates a ventilating fan.

ENERGY ALTERNATIVES

At The Energy Warehouse. The Energy Warehouse has many energy savers that will help you cut heating and cooling costs the year around. You can keep your house cool and comfortable during hot summer weather with ceiling fans, whole house fans, skylights and attic ventilators. Window quilts, reflective window films and sun-blocking screens reduce the sun's glare and heat.

Energy savers for winter should also be considered now. The firm can conduct a low-cost energy audit of your home to pinpoint heat leakage; corrective steps will be recommended and alternate energy sources explored.

Modifications such as solar hot water heaters, greenhouses, sun windows, hot tubs, insulation, wood-burning stoves and storm windows are more easily made during warm weather, the supply of products is more plentiful and installations can be made promptly.

Cooling Fans. Old-fashioned ceiling fans in a variety of styles save 30 percent or more on cooling and heating costs. During warm weather, the fans stir the air creating a comforting wind-chill factor; in cold weather, the fans circulate hot air at the ceiling and force it downward.

All are easily installed, require only 15-75 watts of energy, can be adapted to hold a central light and are equipped with a five speed control; $83-$333.

Ventilating Fans. Vent-a-matic's power attic ventilator, installed in the house roof, exhausts hot air from the attic automatically, keeps living areas cooler and cooling costs lower; $149 installed.

Vent-a-matic's whole house fan, mounted in the ceiling of the top floor, cools the entire house by drawing in cooler air from the basement or outdoors and venting it through the attic. Vent-a-matic's "Year Round Control" and "Frost Free Attic Control" adapt to all their ventilators to provide year round protection from condensation.

Window Treatments. Easily applied reflective window films eliminate most of the sun's heat and ultra violet rays, decrease air conditioning costs, protect furnishings from sun damage and provide privacy with a one way view, sun-blocking screens also curtail the sun's heat. Inside storm windows of clear, rigid acrylic, or decorative, insulated window quilts keep cool air inside during the summer and cut heat loss in the winter.

Skylights in a choice of three styles bring more daylight into the home, permit hot air to escape at ceiling level, and save on lighting and cooling bills. Sun Garden windows in two different sizes brighten rooms and create an ideal environment for growing and displaying plants.

Greenhouses. Anodized aluminum greenhouses — single glazed, double glazed or twin wall polycarbonate — available in several styles — act as walk-in solar collectors and qualify the homeowner for a 40 percent federal tax credit. They are decorative assets to the home, providing a sunny atmosphere for greenery and a pleasant area for relaxing or entertaining.

A greenhouse 16 feet long, facing south, can produce 33 million BTU's per heat season — the equivalent of 400 gallons of oil.

Hot Tubs. Redwood, cedar or mahogany hot tubs, noted for their therapeutic, relaxing benefits, can turn the greenhouse into a spa. The 500 gallons of water in the hot tub, solar heated to an average temperature of 103 degrees, increase the humidity level of the home during the winter and radiate heat during the sunless hours at night.

The Energy Warehouse will custom install the hot tubs with deck work, inside or outside, in accordance with the customer's specifications.

Solar Hot Water Heaters. Homeowners who heat water for household use by operating their oil burners during the summer can save 70-90 percent on fuel by installing a solar domestic hot water heater.

Solar collectors mounted on the roof or at ground level transfer the sun's heat to the stone lined, Fiberglas-insulated tank of water through copper tubing filled with food grade non toxic propylene glycol, producing water temperatures 120 degrees and up. Homeowners can buy the complete system, installed, or buy the components and do the work themselves.

Water Conservation. Water savers at The Energy Warehouse help conserve our valuable water resources. A water conservation shower head increases the flow of water yet decreases the amount of water used, aerators for sink faucets mix water with air to stretch water supplies and Aqua-Savers for toilet tanks — the equivalent of nine bricks — cut the amount of water used by 35 to 40 percent. Insulation on hot water tanks and pipes keeps water hot all the way to the faucet, for immediate convenience and the elimination of water waste.

Camping Conveniences. Solar conveniences for backpackers and campers include solar cookers and ovens "that really work." Portable solar showers in three different sizes are heavy black plastic bags with hose attachments that can be filled with water and allowed to absorb the sun's heat, the small, backpacker's shower can double as a water pillow. Heat sheets for campers reflect body heat for extra warmth, when placed under a mattress cover or sleeping bag.

The Energy Warehouse is 2695 Route 1, Lawrenceville, across from Mrs. G's. Richard Davis and Lawrence Bailey are owners. Store hours are 10-7 Monday through Friday, 10-6 Saturday. Phone 896-9519.

GOOD BUYS IN PLANTS

At Peterson's Nursey. Peterson's Nursery and Garden Market, established in 1939, is well known as a greenhouse and farm market, but few people are aware of the tremendous selection of nursery stock found on the eight acres behind the market. Now, at the optimum time for planting nursery stock, Peterson's has been holding get-acquainted sales — offering evergreens, flowering trees and shrubs at half price.

The sales held Sunday, May 17th and Saturday, May 23rd were great successes and those who have not been able to take advantage of these special offers will have another opportunity, Saturday, May 30th. Other bargains include four cubic feet of peat moss of $6.95 and a flat of pachysandra — approximately 100 plants — for $6.95 — five cents below the wholesale price.

Peterson's gigantic greenhouse presents delightful vistas created by mini gardens displaying foliage and bedding plants. A wide choice of vegetable plants, herbs, hanging baskets for porch and patio, geraniums for summer planting or Memorial Day, and plant supplies and containers are offered, and an infinite variety of perennials is available outdoors.

Peterson's residential and commercial landscaping service provides quality workmanship at reasonable prices, a complete florist service can supply custom arrangements, corsages and fresh cut flowers, and farm produce will be stocked beginning July 1st.

SKILLED GARDENERS at Peterson's Nursery include Eric Lamb, general manager, and Leslie Abbott, horticulture major at Cook College, pictured with one of the attractive indoor gardens which display foliage and bedding plants. Vegetable plants, herbs, hanging baskets and plant supplies are also offered, and a tremendous selection of perennials and nursery stock is available in gardens outside.

It's New to Us

Nursery Stock. Peterson's panorama of nursery stock is displayed in a natural woodland setting under towering trees. Flowering trees and shrubs include dogwood, magnolia, purple leaf plum, lilac, flowering crab, spirea, forsythia, flowering quince, weigela and vibernum.

Spectacular beauty is also offered by broadleaf evergreens — rhododendrons, azaleas, andromeda and hollies. Evergreen shrubs, excellent for foundation plantings, are junipers, yews, arbor vitae and mugho pine.

Shade trees for dense greenery in summer, colorful foliage in the fall, fruit trees with the double bounty of flowers and fruit and ornamental trees, such as crimson maple, can be purchased. Stately evergreens — hemlocks, white pine, Japanese black pine, Norway spruce and Colorado blue spruce — are also available. Potted roses include hybrid teas, floribundas and climbers.

Garden Plants. Gardeners will delight in the enormous variety of flowers, vegetables and herbs found in Peterson's greenhouse. Annuals for beds, borders and summer cutting gardens are marigolds, snapdragons, asters, verbenas, dusty miller, geraniums, petunias, impatiens, wax begonias, salvia, ageratum, coleus, portulaca and many others.

Herbs for seasoning, salads, teas, and pot pourri include thyme, rosemary, borage, anise, rue, camomile, lavender, catnip, chives, marjoram, sweet basil and chervil.

Fresh, home-grown vegetables can be produced from the wide selection of garden plants — ten varieties of tomatoes, six varieties of peppers, egg-plant, pole beans, bush limas, cabbage, celery, kale, mustard greens, watermelon and canteloupe.

Onion sets, regularly 89 cents per pound, will be on sale at three pounds for $1, Saturday May 30th. Vegetables and flowers can also be raised from Excel seeds, sold at Peterson's for 25 cents per packet.

Favorite perennials are displayed outdoors in beds delineated by railroad ties and bordered with several varieties of sedums. Shasta daisies, delphinium, dianthus, coral bells, bleeding hearts, primroses, hosta, floxglove, oriental poppies, day lilies, and gloriosa dalsies are among those offered.

Ground covers include ajuga, myrtle, ivy and pachysandra. Plant care products — humus, fertilizers, mulches, pesticides and fungicides — are also stocked.

Cool Summer Greenery. Hanging baskets and a variety of foliage plants lend touches of cool green to patios, porches and rooms throughout the house. Refreshing greens in hanging baskets include asparagus and Boston ferns, spider plants, Swedish ivy, burro tails and columbias; colorful hanging baskets contain begonias, fuchsias and impatiens, and all hanging baskets are half price through Saturday, May 30th.

Some foliage plants are also on sale; Hindu rope, aluminum plant, begonias, golden brocade, purple waffle and pepperomias, regularly $6, are now $2.50.

Planters and Baskets. Peterson's Nursery offers tremendous selection in everything it sells and the wide array of pots, planters and baskets is no exception. Pots in every size from very small to enormous are clay, ceramic, or colorful plastic; planters include redwood tubs, wood-grained cubes, and bark-covered containers; slatted plant stands and plant hangers of macrame, shells or heads are also available. Domestic and imported baskets — grass, bamboo, oak splint or rattan — serve as decorative accessories and are handy for picnicking, marketing or gardening.

Peterson's Nursery is on Route 206 between Princeton and Lawrenceville. Charles Peterson, Jr., is president; his daughter, Liz Peterson is vice-president. Sharon Smith is a member of the sales staff. May hours are 9-8 Monday through Friday, 9-6 Saturday, 9-5 Sunday. Phone 924-5770.

PREVIEW OPEN HOUSE
SUNDAY, JUNE 7, 1-4 PM
(Nassau St. at Markham Rd., one block east of Harrison St.)

Come and satisfy your curiosity about this new apartment condominium that is now nearing completion. Or see if you would be interested in the comfortable, care free life that will be available in this convenient location.

At this stage you will see one or more of the high-ceilinged, light and airy apartments completed as well as others in various stages of construction.

You will be able to go from the huge, basement garage to the third floor by elevator or stairway and see the extra storage rooms, the open air balconies and many other features of the building.

If you wish you can talk with the developers and others who have planned and built the building and see plans for landscaping the first floor gardens. You may also meet some of the people who have already bought apartments in the building and who will be taking possession of their units in mid-August.

Apartments are presently available from $159,000 to $185,000 including a reserved parking space in the basement garage. Extra spaces are also available.

New Rent Law

Will the four Council members who voted against continuing the ordinance, go along with this one?

"Council was concerned about habitability and information, and we're addressing those things," Mrs. van den Blink explains. "We wanted to find things we think we can all agree on, in a form we can implement — a middle ground."

"Yes, we will need to see Council on the ordinance," Mr. McChesney feels, "but the Co-ordinator is already in the budget because we have someone staffing the rent leveling office. There is the cost of housing inspectors but we aren't suggesting hiring another. Pat Hanson, the health officer, says an inspector can do six to ten units a day, but only those where increases are sought would have to be inspected."

Much was said at Council's two hearings about market rents.

"Nobody really knows whether the Borough's rents are at market level or not," Mr. McChesney remarks. "This would be one way to find out."

By J. Drew Foster, Entomologist

GYPSY MOTH
Part II

Your trees are already defoliated and you're hearing a lot of talk of gypsy moths in the area. The damage done so far is primarily due to the high population of fall cankerworms in our area, and the gypsy moth caterpillars are only just starting! Remember, the cankerworms are smooth-bodied, slender caterpillars, ranging from light green to brown or black. Gypsy moth caterpillars are blackish, very hairy, and at this time are small, about ½ inch or less. They have paired red and blue spots down their backs.

Sprays should be applied soon to protect trees in infested areas. Where a cankerworm spray was applied a week or two ago, a second application may be necessary to control the gypsy moth caterpillars. Survey your trees, or call in a trained professional to evaluate your trees before deciding on a second spray.

If your trees can sustain slight damage, and you opt against spraying, try burlap skirts around your trees. These should be 18 inch wide burlap bands tied around the trunk, forming a skirt under which the late stage caterpillars can hide by day. Every day, lift up the skirts and remove the caterpillars.

You can disrupt the adults' mating process, and thereby reduce next year's egg hatch by using one of the pheromone products on the market. The female gypsy moths' mating scent is a pheromone called disparlure. Disparlure is used as a bait to attract male moths to traps, or as a confusant to reduce the males' chances of locating the females. Hercon Gypsy Moth Traps, called LURE AND KILL, are available individually through your arborist or garden supply store. For neighborhood programs (six acre minimum) we supply the traps. Luretape with disparlure, and Disrupt Flakes (for aerial application) plus consultation application. We are the New Jersey region representatives for community programs using the Hercon Gypsy Moth Traps, Luretape and Disrupt Flakes.

Call us for your complete gypsy moth control program including spraying, pheromone applications, and consultation

The Rev. Jean R. Smith

TO BE ORDAINED

As Priest at Trinity Church. The Rev. Jean R. Smith of Constitution Drive will be ordained to the priesthood Sunday at 10:30 in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

The Rt. Rev. G.P. Bellick Belshaw, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey, will be the celebrant, and the Rev. Dr. Frederick H. Borsch, Dean of the Chapel at Princeton University and former Dean of the seminary from which Mrs. Smith earned her divinity degree, will preach. The Trinity youth group which has been Mrs. Smith's special charge this year at Trinity, has made 30-foot tie-dyed banners in fuchsia and rose tones which will hang from the tower over the central altar.

Mrs. Smith received her M.Div. last June from Church Divinity School of the Pacific, one of the member schools of the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley, Calif. She was ordained to the diaconate at the same time in Grace Cathedral, Berkeley. She came to Princeton last fall to be director of youth ministries at Trinity Church, and this coming year will have added responsibilities for adult education.

Having earned her undergraduate degree in speech therapy at Northwestern University in Chicago, Mrs. Smith had been working as a speech therapist with mentally retarded children and schizophrenic adults in California. The work also involved counseling their families. She entered seminary, she says, to learn more about the spiritual life that had sustained her in this work and which had always been an essential but little heeded part of her life.

Her original intention was to learn theology and content, as she puts it, but after a year she decided to become a postulant for holy orders. She is the wife of Peter T. Smith, director of international marketing for McNeil Products, a Johnson & Johnson Company in Pennsylvania, and the mother of a 14-year old daughter, Lindsay, and a 12-year old son, Davis.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Rev. Thomas J. Weber of Woodlane Road, Lawrenceville, assistant to the bishop of the New Jersey Synod, Lutheran Church in America, was honored in Ocean City at the Synod's 20th annual convention on the 25th anniversary of his ordination into the ministry.

The Rev. Mr. Weber is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., and its graduate school. In 1962, after serving pastorates in Pennsylvania, he was named executive director of the Baltimore Lutheran Urban Church Planning Project, a pilot project undertaken by the three major Lutheran groups in the U.S.

From 1967-72 he was a regional secretary of the LCA's Board of American Missions. He joined the staff of the New Jersey Synod in 1973 and presently has special responsibility for the support and guidance for professional ministers and candidates for the ministry.

The choirs of The First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck will present a Spring Concert on Sunday, May 31, at 4:30. Under the direction of Richard Loatman, works by Peiters, Pachelbel, Pitoni, Handel and Bach will be performed.

Pam Merkel, a ballerina with the N.Y. City Ballet Co., and her partner, Mark Adams, will give an interpretive dance to the Adagio for Strings by Samuel Barber. The newly formed Bell Choirs will present four numbers under Mr Loatman's direction.

The public is invited and refreshments will be served

The Young People's Division of Mount Pisgah AME Church will sponsor a fashion show with the title, "A Fashionable Affair," Sunday at 5 at the church, 170 Witherspoon Street. The donation is $3 for adults and $1.50 for children

For ticket information call 924-9131, 883-1297 or 924-1507

Princeton Jewish Singles will have a folk-dancing evening at the Jewish Center of Princeton Sunday at 7:30. The Lads and Lasses will provide live music, and Steve Schnur will be the caller. No partner is needed and no experience is necessary. Refreshments will be served.

All singles are invited. Contribution is $4. For further information, call Gene at (201) 874-5708.

OBITUARIES

D. Pierre G. Cameron, 75, of Coconut Grove, Fla., died May 16 in Florida. Son of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. Guyot Cameron, he was born in Princeton and grew up here.

Mr. Cameron attended Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and was graduated from Yale University in 1928. He taught at South Kent School in Connecticut until World War II, in which he served in the Navy. After the war, he returned to South Kent and was shortly thereafter named headmaster of the Ransom School in Coconut Grove, Fla. He retired from the school in the late 1960's.

Surviving are his widow, Caroline Dunbar Cameron; a son, D. Pierre G. Cameron Jr., of Bedford, N.H.; a daughter, Wendy Cameron Richards of Andover, Mass.; and nine grandchildren.

The service was held in Miami, Fla. Contributions in his memory may be made to the Ransom School.

John S. Pollock Sr., 56, Pennington-Harbourton Road, Pennington, died May 20 in St. Francis Medical Center. He was a maintenance supervisor for General Motors Corp., Fisher Body Division, in Trenton.

Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Pollock had lived in the Pennington-Trenton area for 42 years. He was an Army veteran of World War II, in which he served in the Philippines and Japan. He was a member of the B.P.O.E. No. 105, Knights of Columbus of Ewing Township and the VFW of Morrisville.

Surviving are his wife, Marion Gerstnicker Pollock; five sons, John S. Pollock Jr. of Lambertville, Timothy W. Pollock and James J. Pollock, both of Pennington, Robert C. Pollock of Ringoes and Matthew R. Pollock, at home; and a daughter, Mrs. Marianne Worth, at home; his mother, Mrs. Mary Pollock of Trenton, and a sister, Mrs. Rosemary Newmark of Sea Bright.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. James Church, Pennington, with burial in Harbourton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Building Fund of St. Francis Medical Center.

John Rady, 14 Humbert Street, died May 19 in Deborah Heart and Lung Hospital, Browns Mills, after a brief illness. He was 58.

Born in Hungary, Mr. Rady lived in Princeton for the past 26 years. He was the owner and operator of Rady Motor Corp. in Trenton.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Theresa Rosa Rady; a son, John Bernath of Hungary; three sisters in Hungary and a granddaughter.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with interment in the parish cemetery.

Correction

A brother John was erroneously listed among the survivors of William H. Frambro, an employee of the Princeton Post Office who died May 9 in Trenton.

University One of Many Large Institutions Helping Employes to Plan Effectively for Their Retirement

Retirement ... great! But it's even greater if you plan ahead.

About 200 over-50 members of the Princeton University staff listened eagerly, took careful notes and asked sharp questions at seven pre-retirement programs organized by the department of personnel services at the University. The final session was held last Wednesday.

The Pre-Retirement Planning Series represents a growing move on the part of large corporations and institutions to help their older employees plan ahead. Educational Testing Service sent an observer to the University's series. RCA, Johnson & Johnson and FMC already have such programs. Squibb completed one recently.

The University's program was conceived and planned by Stanley M. Adelson, assistant director of personnel services for training and communications, and Joan Doig, personnel representative.

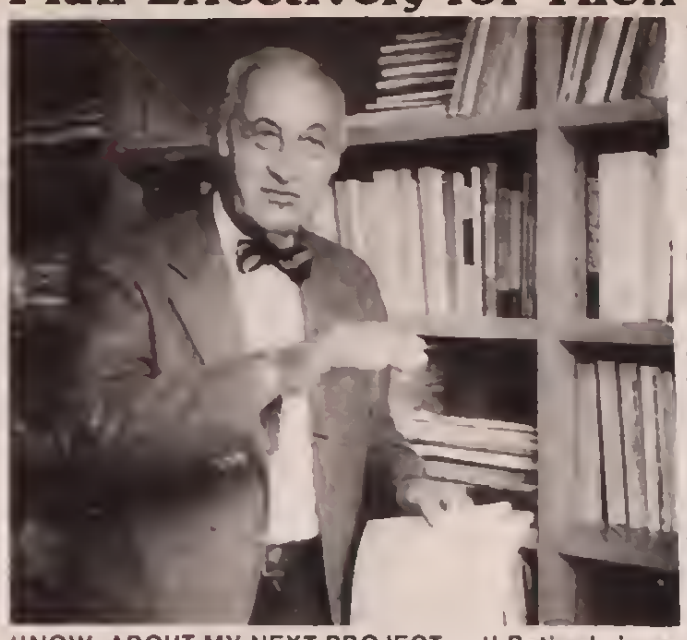
"We sent out a letter to all University employees over 50," Mr. Adelson explains, "that means all groups -- faculty, support staff and research. The letter simply asked 'Are you interested?' From the response, we figured we'd get about 35 to 50 people at each session. But we had between 150 and 175.

"We set an age limit of 50 because that gives you a lot of time to plan, if you're looking toward retirement at 65 -- although you can stay on at the University until you're 70. But most of the people who came are within about five years of retirement. We had a good cross-section of the University community, and spouses, too."

Every institution, of course, has its idiosyncrasies, for example, if you've always lived in University rental housing, you'll have to find another place to live – rent? buy? -- when you retire. Obviously every institution has its own pension and retirement arrangements, and indeed the sessions on the University's own retirement program drew the largest audience.

Problems vs. Joys. But the Pre-Retirement series went beyond these family matters to the broader problems and joys of retirement. Mostly, the talks were upbeat – "you can do what you want to do, when you want to do it!" – but there were shadows, as well.

Most of the audience felt that a film on aging showed at the final session last week, was a real downer, and when one speaker deliberately interrupted an exuberant "what-I'm-going-to-do" exchange with the chill question, "Suppose you have a stroke?" there was a moment of stunned silence.



"NOW, ABOUT MY NEXT PROJECT....." Retired since 1974 as professor of economics at Princeton, Richard Lester is now preparing a book on collective bargaining in the public sector, especially in state and local governments. Keenly interested in aging as it affects professional people, Dr. Lester served on an Academy of Science panel studying "Airline Pilot Age, Health and Performance." That's a copy of the report in his hand.

Richard A. Lester, a former dean of the faculty, and professor of economics, told the first gathering that the first few years were great, but into the second decade you began to find out "what your body is going to do to you."

Professor Lester recommended retiring at the peak, instead of on the downward slope, advising people to leave their jobs while they still have their self-esteem, before they are forced out.

He took a wry look at the future: "Can you afford to live in Princeton? "Maybe a retirement community isn't so bad; people who live there seem to like them;" "it can well be true, what women say: 'I married him for better or for worse – but not for lunch!' -- you may indeed get on each other's nerves if you're together all the time."

This question of communications, of life-style, emerged in remarks made by many of the speakers.

Silent Dinners. "The myth is, 'We'll have a lot of time now to talk,'" Mr Adelson smiles, "but there are an awful lot of silent dinners when you're over 65. And when people say, well, now we'll have time to make friends If you don't have friends now, what makes you think you will after you're retired? If you don't enjoy life now, what will automatically turn it on for you when you're 65?"

Mr. Adelson and Mrs. Doig drew their speakers from a wide range of interests and skill.

Catherine Sutherland, a Certified Public Accountant who teaches at Rider College, described a practical way to figure out your future financial resources and distributed charts and forms for people to take home and fill out, for individual forecasting.

Marsha Beidler, Princeton attorney, talked about wills, the advantages and disadvantages of using a trust in estate planning, and how to plan so that Federal estate and income taxes can be minimized.

"It was astonishing, what technical questions the audience asked about trusts and wills," Mr. Adelson reports, "and this was a broadly mixed audience, not just economists. They wanted to know what would happen in a variety of situations, and their questions were very keen."

Mr. Adelson and Mrs. Doig were particularly impressed with the Social Security representative.

"She got it across without any bureaucratic jargon, used a chalkboard and gave examples," Mr. Adelson says. "She was solid, direct – just wonderful. There was a lot of note-taking when she spoke!"

"Mediatrics." One of the most affirmative of the speakers was Dr. Benjamin Wright, Princeton physician, who told his audience to forget the word "geriatrics."

"Mediatrics," is the new word he used as a replacement.

"In your 50s, 60s and 70s, you're in the prime of life," Dr. Wright told the audience. "You're finishing your work career and beginning your retirement career. 'Geriatrics' only applies to people in their 80s and 90s. The problems of aging are a long way down the road for you."

Dr. Wright said that if you get your doctor to sign a statement about the condition of your heart and what it will stand, the YMCA and YWCA will block out a physical fitness program for you. He passed around a chart, drawn up by Princeton health care specialist Ann Somers, summarizing recommendations for people in their 60s and 70s: breast and colonic

McCarter to Offer 22 Films This Summer

Eleven times two is 22, so if you block in on your summer calendar McCarter's 11 weeks of double-feature films, you'll see 22 movies this summer.

Not only that, McCarter has thoughtfully bracketed them according to theme — more or less — so you can see two movies about what McCarter calls "houses of ill-repute," or a pair about Vietnam alumni, and so on. Now and again, there will be "Midnight Special" screenings on a Friday and Saturday.

Screenings for this fifth anniversary of Summer Cinema will be, once again, in Kresge Auditorium on Washington Road, on the Princeton University campus. Each of the 11 weekly programs will have five screenings on Wednesday through Sunday evenings.

We open Wednesday, June 17, with "Taxi Driver" and "Who'll Stop the Rain?" "Taxi Driver," made in 1971, has Jodie Foster, who was then 12, as a teen-age prostitute. Robert DeNiro won the Oscar for his portrayal of the ex-Vietnam veteran who drives by night and is an urban guerrilla by day. "Who'll Stop..." has a Vietnam war correspondent (Michael Moriarty) who's in a drug-smuggling scene.

Moving on into the summer, the schedule will have "Shampoo," uncut, with Warren Beatty as the Hollywood stud-hairdresser, and "American Gigolo" with Richard Gere as a male hustler in Los Angeles.

News Of The THEATRES

For the Fourth of July holiday week-end, there will be two comedies that deal with middle-aged men searching for love and the perfect woman. One is Woody Allen's "Manhattan," with Diane Keaton, and the other is Blake Edwards' "10" with Bo Derek.

Next will be Louis Malle's "Lacombe, Lucien," about a young French farm boy, and Rainer Werner Fassbinder's "The Marriage of Maria Braun," which relates the adventures of an ambitious German war bride.

Chaplin and Sellers. Charlie Chaplin and Peter Sellers will star in an evening of comedy. Summer Cinema will combine Chaplin's "Modern Times" and Seller's next-to-last film, "Being There," in which he plays Chance, the man who has spent his life gardening and watching television.

Two Italian directors will be featured in the next pair: Bernardo Bertolucci with "The Conformist," a study of the Fascist regime of the 1930s, and Visconti with his last film, "The Innocent."

Terror is the focus of the next double bill, when Stanley Kubrick's "The Shining" and Brian DePalma's "Dressed to Kill" are combined in a double-feature program.

"Sunday, Bloody Sunday," with Glenda Jackson and the late Peter Finch, will be paired with Ingmar Bergman's first color film, "Cries and Whispers," which explores the relationships among three sisters, played by Liv Ullman, Harriet Andersson and Ingrid Thulin.

"Pretty Baby," starring

Brooke Shields — she was 12 then — and "Belle du Jour," in which Catherine Deneuve plays a prostitute, take the audience into "houses of ill-repute."

"Escape from Alcatraz" and "Brubaker" have the same grim locale. The latter is the one in which Robert Redford plays a crusading prison warden.

The final program will bring to Kresge Auditorium two adult comedies, both of them about divorced women trying to cope in New York City. One is Neil Simon's "The Goodbye Girl" with Richard Dreyfuss, and the other is "An Unmarried Woman" with Jill Clayburgh and Alan Bates.

'FANTASTICKS'

In Hightstown. It may well be what they say it is: the longest-running musical in the whole world. At the moment, it's only Hightstown that matters, because "The Fantasticks" will play Hightstown Friday and Saturday June 5, 6; 12, 13 and 19, 20.

The production by The Pentacle Theatre Company, in conjunction with the Department of Community Education of East Windsor, will be given at the Grace Rogers Middle School on Stockton Street in Hightstown. Curtain-time is 8 p.m., and there will be a 2:30 matinee Sunday, June 14.

Residents of Princeton, Hightstown, Plainsboro, Hamilton and Ewing will be in the cast. Actors and singers are Ruth Fields, Sam Rossi, Jeff L. Campbell, Dan Treadwell, Gary Alan Powell, Charlie Johnston, Ed Matakas and Kathie Caprario.

Tickets are $6, with a $4 price for students and seniors. Group rates are available, and information may be obtained by calling 448-0895.

maintains a performing company of 12-20 dancers.

The group aims to present smaller productions of quality in a repertoire of 32 ballets ranging from the major classics through a 12th century Macedonian dance to contemporary and modern works by choreographers such as Frederick Ashton and Tim Wengerd.

The company policy of importing no guest stars, but instead producing and directing their own dancers in solo and principal roles, offers members the opportunity to develop as artists in a repertoire designed to stretch the imagination and capabilities, both technical and artistic, of the performer.

For further information as to audition times and procedures, call 921-6271 before 10 or after 8.

DANCE CLASSES SET

By Arts Center. The Princeton Performing Arts Center, located at 25A Witherspoon, behind the Athenian Restaurant, has scheduled its summer session. The season will include an experimental Friday night "Dance Free," a social time to which young people are encouraged to come, with a record in hand, and dance.

The PPAC summer session will also include daily morning and evening classes in ballet, modern and jazz for children and adults. Daily advanced ballet and intermediate ballet will be held in the morning. Afternoon classes will include pointe, variation, pas de deux, modern, improvisation, repertoire, jazz and mime. Elementary and intermediate ballet and jazz classes will also be offered in the evening.

A special Korean karate class will be given on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and a children's class in Dalcroze eurhythmics will be given Tuesdays at 1. For further information, call 921-6271.

'MOBY DICK'

At Washington Crossing. McCarter Theatre's production of "Moby Dick Rehearsed" will be on stage at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing, N.J. Thursday through Saturday, June 4-6, with a rain-date of Sunday, June 7. The show will start at 8:30.

Orson Welles has adapted Herman Melville's novel by giving the story to a troupe of 1890's Shakespearean actors. They set aside their rehearsals of "King Lear" to run through the classic whaling story and in the process, re-create for themselves and the audience, the vision of the whaling ship and her crew — Captain Ahab, Ishmael, Queequeg, Starbuck and the rest.

William Woodman, formerly artistic director of the Goodman Theatre, Chicago, has staged "Moby Dick Rehearsed." Daniel Boylen designed the sets and Elizabeth Covey, the costumes.

Tickets will be on sale at the Open Air Theatre box office after 4 p.m. the evenings of the shows. Information may be obtained at 737-9721.

TO HOLD AUDITIONS

For "Charlie Brown." Snoopy, the canine Walter Mitty, Charlie Brown, the born loser, Lucy, the untamed shrew, Schroeder, the reincarnation of Beethoven, Linus, the blanket king and even bubble-headed Peppermint Patty. Princeton Community players needs them all for its Washington Crossing Open Air production of Clark Gesner's musical, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Auditions will be held Sunday, June 7 from 1 to 5 at the PCP theatre, 171 Broadmead. The production will run in late July and August under the direction of Rip Pellaton. Ernie Andreoli will be musical director and Sheila Clark will do the choreography. Sue Zimmerman is stage manager.

AT MCCARTER: Abigail Kaplan is one of six modern dance choreographers who will present their works this Saturday at McCarter Theatre. Ms. Kaplan's work, "Stonehenge", will use the live music of Gary Monheit. For ticket information call the New Jersey Center for the Performing Arts at 201-526-6074.

SEASON SET

For University Concert Series. The 1981-82 season of the Princeton University Concerts will bring back Pinchas Zukerman as conductor and violin soloist, in an all-Mozart program with the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra on Thursday, November 19. Mr. Zukerman's last appearance on the University Concerts was with the English Chamber Orchestra in the same capacity in the season 1973-74.

Since 1972-73, the University Concerts have brought to their audience the finest musical events available, including appearances by world-famous artists; i.e., Marilyn Horne, the Cleveland Orchestra, Alfred Brendel, Itzhak Perlman, the Juilliard Quartet, to name only a few, as well as introducing young unknowns: Garrick Ohlsson in 1972, Murray Perahia in 1974, the Waverly Consort in 1975, Emanuel Ax and Yo Yo Ma in 1979, and the Guarneri Quartet in 1965.

This nine-year span is a small segment in the life of the [illegible]-year old concert series, whose roster of events since [illegible] reads like the "Who's Who" of musical presentations.

Next season's eight events will be : "Virtosi in Recital," the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra with Pinchas Zukerman, November 19; Sherrill Milnes, baritone, January 26; Russell Sherman, pianist, March 4; and Nathaniel Rosen, violoncellist, April 5. In the "Chamber Masterworks" series will be Bach's Six Brandenburg Concerti, played by The New York Chamber Soloists, October 12; The American String Quartet with Bert Lucarelli, oboe, November 2; The Juilliard Quartet, January 4; and Eliot Fisk, guitar and Carol Wincenc, flute, May 3.

Subscription tickets are available at the Concert Office, Woolworth Center, Princeton University, 08544, telephone 924-0453.

FEATURED: Pinchas Zukerman, violinist, will appear as a soloist and conductor in an all - Mozart program with the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra on Thursday, November 19, at McCarter Theatre. The concert will lead off the Virtuosi in Recital series of the University Concerts for 1981-82.

GUITARIST TO PLAY

In Alexander Hall. Guitarist Stan Jordan will perform this Wednesday at 8 and again at 10:30 in Alexander Hall. The concert is sponsored by the Princeton University Music Co-op.

Unlike most guitarists who hold the strings down with one hand and pluck with the other, Stan Jordan plays with both hands on the neck of his guitar, "hammering on" the strings. He has named his technique "touch technique," and with it he creates music that is at once complex and precise. His music is described as "not exactly jazz, not exactly rock, not exactly blues, but a sound unique to his playing style."

Mr. Jordan has performed with jazz greats Benny Carter and Dizzy Gillespie and has won praise in wide musical circles for his virtuosity. He is a graduating senior at the University.

Admission is $2 at the door up to one-half hour before each performance.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Beginning Instrumentalists. Parents and friends are invited to hear the annual Princeton Regional Schools Elementary Spring Instrumental Concert on Thursday at 7:30 at Community Park School.

The Beginning Band and Beginning Orchestra are comprised of fifth grade students from Community Park, Riverside, Littlebrook and Johnson Park Schools. The string students will play compositions by Bach, Handel, Vivaldi and Suzuki, as well as various folk songs. The band students will play the theme from Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, Bill Bailey and other selections.

The orchestra is under the direction of Sophia Schultz, and the band is directed by Sidd Kramer.

HELLENIC COMPOSERS

In Concert. A concert of music by Hellenic Composers will be presented by the Friends of Music this Thursday at 8 in Woolworth Center on the Princeton University campus.

The concert will feature compositions by Dinos Constantinides (Sonata for viola and piano), Theodore Antoniou ("Stichomythia II" for amplified guitar) and Nicolas Roussakis ("Ephemeris" for string quartet). The concert is presented with support from the Stanley J. Seeger Fund administered by the Hellenic Studies Committee at Princeton University, and from public funds from the National Endowment for the Arts.

All three composers represented on the program are Greek born. Mr. Constantinides was educated at the Greek Conservatory, the Juilliard School and the Universities of Indiana, Brandeis and Michigan State. He is presently co-ordinator of the Composition Department at Louisiana State University and chairman of the LSU Festival of Contemporary Music.

Mr. Antoniou got his early training in composition at the National Conservatory in Athens, and with Gunther Bialas in Munich. In 1969 he emigrated to the U.S. and is currently on the composition faculty of Boston University's School of Music.

Mr. Roussakis came to the U.S. at the age of 15 and studied at Columbia University. He is the recipient of numerous awards and grants in composition, among them the Award from the National Institute of Arts and Letters. He is currently a member of the Music Faculty of Rutgers University.

Performing artists for the concert will be Benjamin Hudson and Carol Zeavin, violinists, Janet Lyman Hill, violist, Eric Bartlett, violoncellist, Marion Gaffney, pianist and Peter Segal, guitarist. The concert is open to the public, admission free. For further information, call the Concert Office, 924-0453

GYPSY MOTH...AND YOUR TREES

Let's look at both sensibly:

Last year in our area the Gypsy Moth reached almost epidemic proportions. This year will be even worse. It has become a true menace in the Northeastern U.S. It will destroy millions of trees if not controlled. In the Newark Watershed alone it has destroyed 17,855 acres of Oak forest in just 3 years that's over one million trees!

The favorite sources of food for this villain – which is only destructive in the caterpillar stage – are. Oak, Flowering Crabapple, Maple and Poplar. But it will also attack Flowering Cherry, Beech, Dogwood and Birch. Then, as the caterpillar matures and food sources become scarce, it begins feeding on Pine, Spruce, White Cedar and Hemlock, which can tolerate only one such attack.

Not only will Gypsy Moth destroy your trees, but they will swarm over your house, your walks, your patio ... last year we even had reports of them inside homes. So great were their numbers that their "droppings" sounded like rain.

When faced with a choice of arresting the devastation – but not tampering unnecessarily or recklessly with the balance of nature – our aim should be to establish a sensible outlook which considers aesthetic and economic benefits as well as environmental risks.

WOODWINDS is able to offer thoughtful residents of the Princeton area a choice of control measures for this pest, from "traps" to B.T. But we also have, and recommend, Sevin (carbaryl). As the N.J. Department of Agriculture says, "Supplementing natural means with chemical control is not only warranted, but essential."

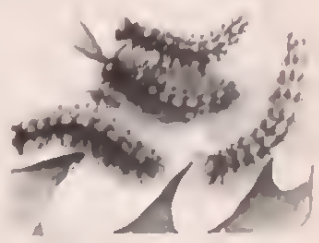
One further note about Sevin, this from the Environmental Protection Agency. "The Agency has considered all available information on the human risks posed by the use of carbaryl and has concluded that the overall weight of evidence does not raise prudent concerns of unreasonable adverse risk."

Your trees have been pushed to their limit from last year's Gypsy Moth attack and the continuing drought. They are too precious to lose. Not only do they provide beauty and shade for you, they also provide shelter to birds and other wildlife. Should they die, they will be expensive to remove, and even more expensive to replace.

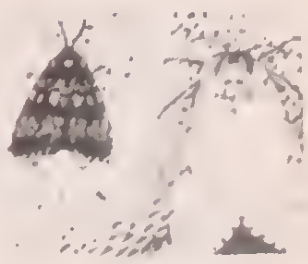
WOODWINDS hopes you will take the Gypsy Moth threat seriously. As professional arborists we have as great a stake in the preservation of our environment as anyone. We want you to know the facts on this issue. Call us. We have the answers to your questions.

EGGS: 1½" long x ¾" wide, velvety-beige; overwintering stage

LARVA: (caterpillar) 1½"-2½" long, brownish, hairy, pairs of red and blue dots. Late April through early June.



ADULT FEMALE: white, 2" wingspread, wingspread, unable to fly. Lays eggs July-September



ADULT MALE: dark brown, 1½" wingspread

News Of Clubs and Organizations

The Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its annual picnic and installation of officers on Wednesday, June 3 at 6:30 at All Saints' Church. A program of light jazz will be provided by The Combo, a group of five students from West Windsor-Plainsboro High School.

Officers for 1981-82, who will be installed by Elizabeth Brown, a former Princeton Branch president, are, president, Phyllis Chu; first vice-president, Janet Narayan; treasurer, Mary Shukis; corresponding secretary, Diane Dickson; cultural interest chairman, Willa Lappi; community, Cris Blackstone; committee on women, Earlene Baumunk; legislation, Rose Fishkin; educational foundation, Paula Greenberg; public information, Phoebe Shallcross; hospitality, Rina Ehrhardt; bulletin, Judy Hamilton; historian, Claudette Weissleder; social secretary, Eve Mount; and topic chairman for Taking Hold of Technology, Phyllis Roney.

An invitation is issued to prospective members, who should make supper reservations by calling Judy Hamilton at 799-1328 or Pat Cahill at (201) 359-2272.

A new approach to stress reduction will be demonstrated by Princeton University psychologist Dr. Patricia Carrington at a meeting of the Holistic Health Association on Tuesday at 8 at the Unitarian Church. Dr Carrington, who is an authority on the use of stress management techniques, will present the method, Releasing, which she describes as teaching a person to move in exactly the opposite direction from the one we customarily follow when confronting stress. For this very reason, Releasing cuts through the anxiety, confusion and immobilization we typically experience when under pressure."

"The Future Shines Bright for Hadassah" is the theme for Princeton Hadassah's installation meeting which will be held this Wednesday evening at 8:15 at the Jewish Center. New officers for the coming year will be installed.

They are, president, Marsha Freeman; vice-presidents in charge of fund-raising, Marci Citron, Rita Zadoff, Marilyn Zagorin; vice-presidents in charge of membership, Nancy Cohen and Ann Sokoloff; vice-president of programming, Jeanne Leiman; vice-presidents for education, Debbie Feigen and Sharon Prasow; treasurer, Barbara Litt; financial secretary, Joan Rosenfeld; recording secretary, Ruth Feldstein, and cooresponding secretary, Joan Levin.

Guest speakers for the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. Jan Safer. Dr. Safer, a neuro-radiologist practicing with the Radiology Group of New Brunswick, spent the past summer working in the radiology department at Hadassah Hospital in Ein Kerem, Israel. His wife and two sons accompanied him. Slides will be shown.

Coffee and refreshments will follow. Hadassah Hostesses will be Bette Kohen, Florence Nathan, Marci Citron, Rita Zadoff and Marilyn Zagorin. All are welcome.

The Business and Professional Women's Club will meet on Monday, June 8 at the Nassau Inn, with dinner beginning at 6:30 and the program at 7:30.

The topic will be "Starting Your Own Business," with the speakers selected from the club membership.

High School scholarship winners for this year will be announced. The cost of the dinner is $9. Reservations can be made by telephoning Helen Weiland at (201) 359-4463 no later than noon on Friday, June 5.

Mary Hayden, outgoing president of the Rocky Hill Community Group, presided over the election of new officers at the annual meeting.

John Murphy, outgoing chairman of the Historical Committee, narrated a slide show of "Rocky Hill Then and Now," showing many homes

ART In Princeton

STUDY WITH AN EXPERT

Art Association Suggests. The Princeton Art Association offers the opportunity to study with artists during its summer session beginning June 1. Portraiture may be studied with Lee Stang Harr, who maintains a studio in Cranbury. Ms. Harr is known for her portraits in charcoal, pastel, and oil, which hang in many private homes, professional offices, and industry collections.

She has taught in Kentucky, Staten Island, and the Princeton area.

Students may also learn classical figure drawing techniques with Stephen Kennedy in his painting with oils class. Mr. Kennedy, who attended the Catholic University and studied at George Washington University and Rochester, New York, has a knowledge of classical and impressionist color theory.

Jacqueline Chesley will provide her students of painting with pastels with an innovative approach. Ms. Chesley, who has had many one-woman exhibitions, is also well represented in many collections, including that of ETS. Her work has been included in the Pastel Society of America Annual Exhibition at the National Academy in New York City.

For more information on these and other classes available, call the PAA studios at 921-9173.

FUND RAISER SET

By Art Association. The setting of the American Boychair School will be the location of the Princeton Art Association's major fund-raiser, "An Evening with Art and Artists."

Set for Saturday, June 20, this event will feature Darby Bannard, internationally recognized artist, scholar, and critic as the master of ceremonies of an art lottery encompassing the work of over 60 New Jersey and New York artists. For more information, call the Association's studios at 921-9173.

New officers elected for a two-year term were Carol Henderson, president; Janet Sykes, first vice-president; Abraham Oort, second vice-president, Lucy Molfetas, secretary, Joan Eckstein, treasurer.

Board members elected for a two-year term were Marnie Allen, Carol Boozer, Vicki Dean, Joan Eckstein, Mija Gellerman, Mary Hayden, Judy Mills, Leslie Jones Posner, Amy Stromsten and Janet Sykes.

The Princeton Chapter of the Association for Computing Machinery, along with the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, will present a lecture by Dr. Mashey on "Unix and the Programmers' Workbench," Thursday, June 4, at 8 p.m. at RCA Laboratories, Route 1.

A dinner will be held before the meeting for all interested professionals. For further information call Doug Dixon, 734-3176 or Ken Burkhardt, (201) 932-3415.

Gay People Princeton will meet Thursday at 8 in the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill and State Roads. Election of officers will be held, followed by a party.

The annual meeting of the New Jersey Press Women will be held Saturday, June 13, at the RCA David Sarnoff Research Center, and will feature a seminar on layout and design of newspapers and other publications. Awards will be presented during the luncheon to winners of the annual NJPW Communications Contest, and winners will be announced of the national contest of the National Federation of Press Women of which NJPW is an affiliate.

Seminar speakers will be Jerry Bellune, editorial page editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, a former Sunday editor of the Bergen Record and executive editor of the Camden Courier Post, Robert Lockwood, former art director of the Allentown Morning Call who has his own design consulting service, Information Graphics, Inc., and Robert Goodman, director of Nursing Media at Trenton State College, former publisher of the South Back Times art journal who teaches typography and design.

Designed primarily for members of NJPW, a limited number of professional journalists, public relations practitioners and others involved in the production of publications may attend. Deadline for reservations is May 29. For information call Kae Caldwell, NJPW president, 38 Newton Avenue, Woodbury 08096, phone 845-7825.

The Senior Citizens Club will meet Friday at 1 in The Senior Center in the old Borough Hall Gym. A tour of inspection will be conducted with information concerning further improvements. A business meeting will be held with a discussion of the annual picnic to be held on Tuesday, June 9.

Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt of the Jewish Center of Princeton will speak about "Jewish Mourning Traditions" Tuesday at 8 at a meeting of the Mercer Chapter of Compassionate Friends. He will discuss the role of traditions of mourning in the grief process and the psychological support provided by those traditions.

Compassionate Friends is a national self-help organization of bereaved parents. The Mercer Area Chapter meets the first Tuesday of each month at Trinity Church to help foster the physical and emotional health of the bereaved family. All bereaved parents are invited.

For further information write to P.O. Box 969, Hightstown, 08520, or call 799-3414.

The West Windsor Democratic Club will hold a Spring Get-Together on Sunday evening from 5 to 7. The event will take place at the home of Paul and Ruth Finkelstein, 10 Springwood Drive, Princeton Junction.

Wine and cheese and other refreshments will be served. There will be no charge to attend this party. It will be a time to renew old acquaintances and to meet new people.

All West Windsor Democrats, Independents and disenchanted Republicans are welcome to attend. It is not necessary to make reservations for the party, but a phone call to Bob Bell at 799-2312 or Ruth Finkelstein, 799-0759, advising that you plan to attend, would be appreciated.

Degrees and Diplomas Awarded to Princeton Area Residents

Princeton area residents are receiving graduate, undergraduate and honorary degrees at commencement exercises at colleges and universities across the country.

Graduating from Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y. are Douglas M. Angoff, 19 Meadowbrook Drive, who earned the A.B. in history; Paul J. Bruschi, 165 Grover Avenue, B.S. in computer engineering; and Martha C. Dean, 14 Wycombe Way, Princeton Junction, a Ph.D. in social science.

Dr. Robert H. Dicke, the Cyrus Fogg Brackett Professor of Physics at Princeton University, has received an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Ohio Northern University.

Named the Cyrus Fogg Brackett Professor of Physics in 1967, Dr. Dicke was named Chairman of the Physics Department in 1967. He is credited with important contributions to the development of radar, and has obtained numerous patents, including the first one on a laser. For his contribution to microwave radiometry and to the understanding of atomic radiation, he was awarded the Rumford Premium of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1967.

Dr. Dicke has carried out observational tests of Einstein's general theory of relativity leading to a finding that the sun is slightly oblate and raising doubts about general relativity. Consequently, he has suggested the existence of a "scalar" field, which arises from the total distribution of matter in the universe.

Robert Rock Jr., of 360 Riverside Drive, has been awarded a master's degree in public administration by Rutgers University. Mr. Rock, who also holds degrees from Princeton and Harvard Universities, is director of professional relations for the Johnson & Johnson Baby Products Company.

Three Princeton residents have received degrees from the University of Vermont in Burlington, Vt.

They are Paul D. Duba, son of Doreen and Arlo Duba of 139 North Harrison Street who was awarded the B.S. degree in forestry and environmental studies from the School of Natural Resources; Matthew Adriance, son of George Adriance of 729 Prospect Avenue extension and Jane Adriance of Newlin Road, who earned a B.S. in environmental studies, also from the School of Natural Resources; and Maria Blair, daughter of David and Rosemary Blair, who received a B.S. in agricultural economics from the School of Agriculture.

Dudley A. Fitzpatrick of 486 Rosedale Road has received a bachelor of science degree in commencement ceremonies at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, at which Lynn C. Grodnick of 9 Carver Place, Lawrenceville, received a bachelor of arts degree.

Ann Summer, 222A Halsey Street, graduate student-intern in social group-work at Family Service Agency, has received her M.S.W. from the Graduate School of Social Work at Rutgers. During her placement at Family Service Agency, Ms. Summer worked at Princeton Community Village, as well as at the agency's Princeton office, 120 John Street.

David M. Lemonick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Aaron Lemonick of Joseph Henry House, Nassau Street, has earned the doctor of medicine degree from New York Medical College in Valhalla, N.Y. He is a 1977 graduate of the University of New Hampshire where he received a bachelor of science in forestry. He will do his postgraduate training in surgery at Roosevelt Hospital, New York City.

Three Princeton area residents have received bachelor of arts degrees from Bowdoin College. They are Elizabeth (Lisa) L. Morgan of 8 Constitution Hill East, John R. Hickling of 6 Lemore Circle, Rocky Hill, and David H. Barnes of 8 Merion Place, Lawrenceville.

Miss Morgan majored in visual arts at Bowdoin and was a Dean's List student as was Mr. Barnes, who held a double major in economics and government. He was elected co-captain and tri-captain of the soccer team and three times was named to the Colby-Bates-Bowdoin Conference all-star soccer team as a fullback. He also played varsity lacrosse and was selected to play in the 1981 New England East-West Senior All-Star Lacrosse Game.

Mr. Hickling majored in economics.

Lauren Brombert, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Victor Brombert of Library Place, was graduated from Haverford College with a bachelor of arts degree. A classics major, she received departmental honors in classics, and the William W. Baker Prize for excellence in Greek. She will be assuming the position of assistant director of admissions at International House in Philadelphia on June 1.

She is a graduate of Princeton High School.

Nine area residents were among 474 students who received bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees in commencement exercises at Dickinson College.

The students, their degree and major field of study are, from Princeton, Katherine Cundiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. Thomas Cundiff, 12 Pardoe Road, B.A., economics and French; Lynne M. Forrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Forrey, 155 Dodds Lane, B.A., English; Katharine T. Fox, daughter of Mrs. Rachel R. Fox, 11 Aiken Avenue, B.S. biology and psychology;

Also, Catherine L. Mosely, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Roger V. Moseley, 113 Linwood Circle, B.A., English and fine arts; Deborah A. Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Newman, 24 Gulick Road, B.A. English; Leslie R. Scharfstein, son of Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Scharfstein, 40 Clover Lane, B.A. psychology; and Stephen T. Ivey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon H. Ivey, 10 Birchwood Court, B.A. psychology.

Other area residents graduating from Dickinson include Nancy Craig, daughter of Peter H. Craig, 7 Mallard Road, Pennington, B.S. French and geology; H.L. Boyer Royal Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H.L. Boyer Royal Sr., 25 West Long Drive, Lawrenceville, B.A., psychology.

PDS Dreams of State Championship End with Loss to Montclair

The Princeton Day lacrosse team's dreams of glory and the state championship disappeared in a cloud of dust on a hot Monday afternoon earlier this week, when the Panthers lost to Montclair High School, 8-4, in the semi-finals of the Coaches Tournament.

Montclair will play the winner of the Summit-Columbia contest in the finals set for this Saturday in Palmer Stadium prior to the finals of the NCAA lacrosse tournament between Johns Hopkins and North Carolina.

The disappointing loss left everybody looking for reasons; the most popular one being that Saturday night's prom and related activities Sunday took too much out of the PDS players. Last Wednesday's dramatic win over Lawrenceville, the first ever for the Blue and White, also may have contributed. It was difficult to get up to another emotional peak for Montclair.

Whatever the Panthers' problems were, however, the visitors from North Jersey were definitely the better team after the first 10 minutes. They took full advantage of almost every scoring opportunity, building their margin of victory on fast break and transition goals.

Ran Out of Gas. On a day with temperatures reaching into the high 80's, PDS was able to run with Montclair for the first period and into the second, before running out of gas. "We dominated the first quarter, but in the second we began picking up penalties (five in eight minutes), and then our midfielders just couldn't get back quickly enough on defense," said a dejected Bob Krueger, the PDS coach.

A pair of goals by attackman Joe Warren gave PDS brief leads of 1-0 and 2-1, and as late as midway through the second period, the Blue and White was no worse than 2-2. But from that point until late in the third, Montclair scored five unanswered goals, and it was painfully obvious that PDS did not have the stamina left to overtake the visitors.

John Drezner gave the large group of PDS spectators a brief flicker of hope when he brought his team to within four at 7-3 late in the third, but Montclair scored within the next minute to make it 8-2. In the final stanza, PDS could manage just one tally by Ebe Metcalf.

The Panthers had other chances, but rarely seemed in a position to get off a strong shot. Montclair for its part, did a good job of clearing the ball and playing keep away, taking only one shot in the final period.

Lawrenceville Wins. The loss overshadows, for the while at least, the stirring triumph over Lawrenceville, which gave the Panthers' their best season ever. The Larries led for a good part of the game, but PDS stayed close and finally tied the score at four all late in the third period.

Shortly thereafter, PDS went ahead, 5-4, only to have Lawrenceville tie it up early in the fourth. PDS went ahead to stay midway through the fourth on a goal by Phil Ferrante. Drezner and Robby Bowen added insurance goals for an 8-6 final.

In between the Lawrenceville and Montclair games, PDS demolished Dwight-Englewood for its 14th victory of the season, enabling it to equal its best season's record ever, 14-2.

Despite the sad note on which the season ended, it was the most successful to date. Now in his sixth year, Krueger has moved the team into the A division in lacrosse, even though PDS is rated a "B" school in athletic competition. He made this move four years ago, when it became apparent that the Panthers could handle the increased competition.

This spring PDS won its division for the first time, and made it into the Coaches Tournament. Along the way it captured the Private School's tournament. It may be a long while before the team gets this far again.

Playing in Palmer Stadium for the state championship would have been a memorable event, but senior proms can produce some pretty fond memories too.

TIGERS TAKE FOURTH At IC4A Track Meet. Princeton University's track team failed to squeeze a single first place out of either Augie Wolf or Tom Meyer, the standouts in the shot, discus, and javelin, but six other Tigers contributed to school record performances as Princeton placed fourth in the IC4A track meet at Villanova last weekend.

The Orange and Black finished behind Maryland, the favorite in the meet, Fairleigh Dickinson, and Seton Hall, but 13 points ahead of both Villanova and Penn State, which were tied for fifth. Then came Penn, Navy, and Rutgers.

"It's particularly nice to finish ahead of those scholarship schools," said Larry Ellis, the coach who is savoring what might be the strongest Princeton track showing in at least two decades. Earlier this spring the Tigers won the Heptagonals and last fall the cross country team won the Heptagonals in that sport.

Wolf and Meyer, the only two Princetonians who earned spots at the NCAA competition in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, the first weekend in June, both were off their best form in the IC4As. Wolf placed second in both the shot and the discus, and Meyer ended up third in the javelin.

But Brad Urschel set a school record in the decathlon as he placed third and the 400 meter relay team of Remo Biagioni, Paul Arata, Ken Bruce, and Manny Modu broke its own University mark en route to another third place finish. Peter Arduino finished fifth in the 400 meter intermediate hurdles with a school record time. Modu added a sixth place in the 100 meters and Mark Rifkin completed Princeton's scoring with a third in the discus.

Hopkins vs. North Carolina

Before the NCAA lacrosse tournament began they were ranked first and second in the nation and as the tournament moves to its final game this Saturday at 2 in Palmer Stadium, Johns Hopkins and North Carolina are still the top two teams.

Hopkins (13-0) defeated Virginia, 10-6, to make the final game. North Carolina raised its record to 11-0 by trouncing Navy, 17-8. This is the first time since 1976 that two undefeated teams have faced each other in the lacrosse finals.

Tickets at $4 apiece will be on sale at the gate.

Lightweights to IRA. The annual Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta on Lake Onondaga in upstate New York is normally a heavyweight event. But next week Princeton's undefeated lightweight crew may make the trek to Syracuse to compete in the junior varsity race. Coach Gary Kilpatrick's crew is simply hoping to get in a tune-up before its biggest race of the year — the Royal Regatta in Henley, England, late in June.

If the lightweights receive University permission to compete at the IRA, they will join the freshman heavyweights and possibly a freshman four in Syracuse. The first freshman boat lost only one race all year and the second freshman boat was undefeated. The four-man boat would be comprised of oarsmen plus the coxswain from the second-string freshman crew.

Varsity Heavies Out. Despite its sixth place finish in the Eastern Sprints at Worcester, Mass., the varsity heavyweight boat will not compete in the IRA. University policy dictates that a boat has to make at least the finals of the Sprints to be eligible for the Syracuse race. The varsity did that despite losing its No. 5 oarsman from an injury suffered in a head-on collision with the freshman crew during practice.

But that man's replacement has a summer job commitment that will prevent him from competing and when Coach Pete Sparhawk looked down the roster of possible substitutes he realized that the boat would be no faster and possibly slower. "It's discouraging," said Sparhawk, "because we had a lot of seniors in that boat and it's an extra three weeks of rowing that other schools are going to get but we won't."

In tennis, Princeton's only entrants in the NCAA championships, the doubles team of Leif Shiras and John Low, advanced to the round of 16 at the tournament in Athens, Georgia. Then they were eliminated by North Carolina State's Andy Andrews and Mark Dillon, 6-4, 6-4.

PHS STICKMEN OUSTED From Lacrosse Tournament. "We lost. It's the end of our season."

For Princeton High lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo and his team, the 1981 season ended last week much sooner than they had hoped. The Little Tigers were eliminated in the first round of the NJISAA state tournament, 11-6, by West Morris.

Surprisingly, no big league baseball team ever wore numbers on their uniforms on a regular basis until the Yankees started the trend in 1929 ... The Yanks numbered their players in the order they came to bat, so two of the most famous numbers in history — Babe Ruth's No. 3 and Lou Gehrig's No. 4 — came about because they batted 3rd and 4th in the lineup ... The rest of the American League adopted numbers in 1930, and the National League started using them in 1931.

PDS Wins Lacrosse Title, Defeating Stuart in Double Overtime

There were no reported cases of cardiac arrest during the final minutes of last Wednesday's girls lacrosse game between Princeton Day and Stuart, but this championship contest was definitely not for the faint of heart.

As they have for the previous two years, the two schools met on a Lawrenceville School field in the finals of the New Jersey Independent Schools tournament, which Stuart has won each time.

Princeton Day, undefeated in 12 games thus far including an 8-4 triumph over Stuart, was the odds on favorite to wrest the title away from its nearby rival, but no one could have guessed beforehand what a struggle this would be.

For the record, the Panthers finally did win this one, completing their perfect season, but it too two last-ditch efforts and two overtime periods to accomplish the feat.

DREZNER ON TARGET: Princeton Day's Jessie Drezner fires a shot at the Stuart goalie during last Wednesday's showdown between the two schools for the state championship. PDS squeezed out an 8-7 victory in double overtime to complete an undefeated season.

PDS Coach Kim Bedesem, still in a mild state of shock the following day, had trouble recounting the correct order of scoring in the final minutes, but she was well aware of her team's problems with Stuart.

"Stuart played well, and we played poorly," Bedesem commented. "We seem to get the jitters when we play them, we were tight and over anxious. Our timing was off on our cuts, and that may have been due to the larger size of Lawrenceville's field as well."

Stuart Scores Quickly. The first few minutes of the game certainly must have compounded the PDS girls' nervousness. They took seven shots at the Stuart goalie, and none went in, meanwhile Stuart came down the field twice and scored immediately both times for a quick 2-0 lead.

As Bedesem pointed out, PDS rarely was behind this season, and this made it tougher. Cathy Edelmann managed to make it 2-1, but Stuart scored twice more to increase the margin to 4-1. A goal by Jessie Drezner made it 4-2 at the end of the first half.

Stuart hung on to its two-goal advantage through most of the second half as the two teams traded goals. As time began to wind down, Drezner came up with a couple of fine solo efforts to finally bring PDS up to a 5-5 tie.

Stuart came right back with a goal to go ahead 6-5, but with the clock running out Suzie Haynes knotted the score at 6-6, sending the contest into a six-minute overtime. The first three minutes elapsed with no scoring, and the teams changed sides.

More Haynes Heroics. With about 2½ minutes left, Stuart forged ahead again, 7-6. PDS battled back and again with time running out (30 seconds) Haynes scored to create a 6-6 deadlock.

The teams went into a second overtime, this one a sudden death. Stuart almost won it, not once but twice, but PDS goalie Ann McCollum made two superb saves.

A short time later Janet Zawadsky was fouled near the Stuart goal and given a free shot from 12 meters. Before Stuart defenders could reach her, she fired a low shot into the corner to end the drama and give PDS an 8-7 victory and the championship.

If Bedesem was shaking her head at her players' nervousness, she was also mighty happy at their ability and determination to keep coming back when the pressure was really on. "The girls never gave up," Bedesem commented. And we were never ahead until we won it."

She also had high praise for McCollum, who was only inserted into the game in late in the second half. McCollum who celebrated her birthday on Wednesday, is an exchange student from Houston, Texas, and took up lacrosse this spring for the first time.

nice team," said Cirullo of West Morris. "They wanted it a little bit more than we did. We didn't have a good team concept."

PHS ended 6-4 in regular season play, 6-5 overall. The victors' record is 14-3.

A 12 day layoff prior to the game, created when North Hunterdon cancelled a scheduled contest two days earlier, had to be a contributing factor, in Cirullo's opinion. "West Morris had four games in the past two weeks, we didn't play any. You can't run a lacrosse program like that."

The 11-6 win was "every bit of an 11-6 spread," Cirullo observed. "They led the whole way. When we corrected one thing, another aspect of our game fell apart."

Sad Way To Go Out. "It's a sad way to go out. We were in the thick of things a few weeks back ... then to go out like this. We've played better teams than that." Cirullo, to back up his contention, pointed out that PHS had lost to the two top ranked teams in the state, Summit and Princeton Day School, by a total of three goals.

Among those scoring single goals against West Morris were Steve Hudd, Dave Forrey, Chris Hankel and Todd Breithaupt.

Cirullo will lose some key players to graduation. Departing from the midfield are Budd, the team's leading scorer Steve McDonald, the team's top faceoff player; Jim Cantrill, who says Cirullo, "came on strong at the end of the year and was one of our sparkplugs," and Hankel, a utility middy whose forte was defense "He's done the job for us all year," said Cirullo.

The attack will lose Forrey, "a component part of the team," and top defenseman Pat McAvenia. The others are all sophomores and juniors. "We have a lot of strength coming back," said Cirullo.

He added that he has been promised 15 to 16 games next spring. "I hope they keep their word on it. If we have ten again that's just ridiculous."

HUN WINS, 3-2

On Landis' 4-Hitter. The Hun baseball team edged Gill-St. Bernard, 3-2, last week, as Tim Landis tossed a four-hitter Landis also allowed nine walks, "but luckily," observed Hun coach Bill McQuade, "they didn't hit the ball that hard"

Martin Sumners tripled in Bill Kostrub, who had gotten on via an error, with the winning run. Chris Hunninghake's single drove in another run early in the game.

PHS's only other start last week — a scheduled makeup game with Princeton High School on Friday had to be cancelled because PHS was engaged in an NJISAA tournament game with Ridge — Hun lost a 4-2 decision to a strong Lawrenceville team.

The Larries, the Class A Prep School state champions, took an early 2-0 lead when Pete Krawchuck banged a two-run homer off Russ Petranto in the first. Hun came back to tie it in the third, combining a couple of walks, a wild pitch that scored one run and Hunninghake's single.

Lawrenceville then plated two more runs in the sixth to win it. In the last three innings, Hun stranded seven runners, failing to score with the bases loaded in one inning and leaving runners on first and third in another. "We just couldn't get hits with men on base," said McQuade.

ONE MORE TIME

PHS is CJ Tennis Champion. This has been the greatest year ever for the Hopewell Valley High School tennis team: 20 victories, including two regular season wins over previously dominant Princeton High, the Colonial Valley Conference crown, and just three losses.

But the Bulldogs may have traded it all for a different ending in their last two matches. Last week, PHS upset HV, 3-2, to win the first Mercer County Tournament title, although the Little Tigers would question that it was an "upset." Thursday, and even more painful to the Bulldogs, PHS did it again, edging HV 3-2 to win the Central Jersey Group 2 state championship for the fifth time in the past six years.

PHS had to claw its way back throughout the fourth meeting between the two teams, held at the Rider College courts. The number one singles, which Princeton's Scott Clark had made a virtual certain point the previous four years, went again to HV for the fourth time this season as Rad Badakhsh stopped Jacob Leschly, 6-2, 6-3.

The difference in form has occurred in the number three singles, where David Yim has been able to reverse two earlier setbacks to Alan Posta. Last week, Yim, who said afterward that he is playing more consistent and smarter tennis, stopped Posta in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, to tie the match. It was the 12th straight win for Yim since losing to Posta on April 30.

HV regained the lead when Mark Delehey lost the first set, 3-6, to Andy Goodyear, but then rallied to win the next two, 6-4, 6-2, to capture the number two singles.

PHS coach Joe Diefenbach had told his team before the match they would have to win both doubles. PHS did, but not before losing the first set in each and forcing Diefenbach to squirm. "What a comeback; it takes a whole team effort, everyone has to come through," said Diefenbach.

The match was tied for the second time when Princeton's number one doubles Richard Carlson and Erik Granade defeated Brent Delehey and Mark Farina, 4-6, 7-6, 6-4. That left the outcome on the shoulders of Steve Ellis and David Ellerstein.

They lost the opening set in a tiebreaker to Hopewell's second doubles of Scott Kablesh and Jim Maida. They won the next two, 6-3, 6-4, however, to give PHS the Central Jersey crown and left Hopewell Valley wondering which team had the better season.

ALLAIRE IS VICTOR

At Springdale. On a sudden-death, 19th hold, Dolores Allaire last week won the Handicap Tournament at Springdale Golf Club.

After being three up at the turn, Mrs. Allaire was tied by Kathy Shillaber, 1979 club champion, on the 13th hole. From there to the 18th it was a seesaw battle.

Others included in the championship flight were Liz Fernandez, medalist; Jackie O'Neil, Mimi Frantz, Jean Brown, Beverly Crane, Jeanne Silvester, Kay Bingeman, Sheila Leyton, Claire Parsells, Debby Shillaber, Mary Rogers, Nancy Ford, Kate Litvack and Rose Johnson.

Consecutive Losses Suffered by Little Tigers Eliminate Them from 2 Baseball Tournaments

For the Princeton High School baseball team the disappointments came back to back.

Saturday, the Little Tigers were knocked out of the Mercer County Tournament when they lost, 12-6, to Hamilton in the semi-final round. The previous day, PHS was eliminated from the NJISAA Central Jersey Group 2 state tournament for the second year in a row by Ridge, which blanked the Blue and White, 8-0, behind a one-hitter by Brad Powell.

A year ago, PHS was also bumped in the second round of the County Tournament by Notre Dame. "It came down to the last two games last year, too," said a disconsolate PHS coach Jim O'Neill. "One day you're alive in both and the next day you're done."

PHS has one game left. It will oppose West Windsor this Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 in the Mercer County consolation game. West Windsor was ousted Saturday by Ewing, 2-1.

Powell Overpowering. To beat Ridge's unbeaten Brad Powell would, PHS knew, be a Herculean task. There would be no heroics for the Little Tigers.

The 6-5, 215-pound flame-thrower struck out ten Little Tigers, more than twice the season average of four a game, and limited the losers to one hit — a double down the right field line by John Pirone. The Red Devils, meanwhile, raked Andy Kulinski for 14 hits and eight runs.

"I've never seen a high school kid dominate a game like he did," said O'Neill. "He's the most amazing high school player I've ever seen."

Powell, reports O'Neill, has a super fast ball that's been timed at 90 miles an hour. He throws regularly in the 86 to 88 area. "As soon as he gets a better behind on the count, he begins to play with you," O'Neill continued. "Then he comes in with a slow curve ball that breaks so sharply."

Ridge is 14-5. "Without Powell they're 6-5 — just a .500 ball club," O'Neill pointed out.

Timing Was Off. If the loss to Ridge was not wholly unexpected, the setback to Hamilton Saturday was, O'Neill acknowledged. "I was disappointed in the way we played. We couldn't get anything going at the plate. Our timing was off from the day before but we've got to be able to adjust and we didn't do that. We also played sloppy on defense which is not characteristic of us."

Clark Lippincott started on the mound for PHS and he held the Hornets (20-6) to a 3-1 lead for the first three innings. In the fourth, Hamilton pushed four runs across, the most damaging blow a three-run double by Charlie Lewis, and by the end of five, Hamilton had a commanding 12-1 lead.

Peter Krasnoff came on in relief to be followed by Judd Petrone. It turned out that Petrone, whom O'Neill had considered starting despite his being bothered by a sore arm all season, pitched the best of all three.

PHS scored one run in the first. Kevin Phox, who had a leadoff single and then stole his 24th base in 24 attempts to set a new PHS record for thefts, came home on Brent Robinson's triple.

PHS then added five runs in the last two innings. In the sixth, John Kandell singled, Pirone walked and both advanced on Andy Kulinsky's single. Both scored on Scott Porecca's two-run single.

In the seventh, Robinson doubled for his third hit in the game, sending home Dan Miller, who had walked. With two outs, two more runs came across on Pirone's double and an error by the third baseman on Frank Whittaker's hard chopper. PHS ended with ten hits but was guilty of four errors.

"Hamilton is a good hitting team. Our pitchers got behind in the count," said O'Neill, "and had to serve up good pitches. Plus those errors hurt us."

In contrast against Ridge, the PHS defense turned two double plays and almost had a third. "If we had played that well on defense against Hamilton, it might have been a different story," said O'Neill.

Four in a Row. PHS had prepped for its big weekend, by coming from behind in the sixth inning to nip West Windsor, 5-4, Thursday in its final Colonial Valley League game.

After PHS had let the visiting Pirates regain a one-run lead with two runs in the fifth, Judd Petrone opened the sixth by hitting a shot to deep left center. Petrone circled the bases to tie the score. "That's the way to bang the ball," shouted O'Neill. "That's the way to tie the game up in a hurry."

Whittaker then got on base on a low throw to first by the third baseman and scored the winning run when the next batter, Owen Robertson, looped a pop fly that fell in behind second.

Scott Porecca, who went the distance for the first time, set West Windsor down in order in the seventh. He got the first two to pop out. He got the final batter to strike out, fanning him on a change-up that he missed by six inches.

"He's got their hitters way off stride," said O'Neill. "He's a junk ball pitcher and high school kids can't hit a junk ball."

The win was the fourth in a row for the Little Tigers and left them with a 13-9 record. And a lot of momentum. Two days later, their season, for all intents and purposes, was over.

WINNER AT SPRINGDALE: Mrs. Dolores Allaire last week won the Handicap Tournament at Springdale Golf Club, defeating Kathy Shillaber in sudden death.

PHS IS NIPPED

60-59 in CJ Track. In posting an 11-0 dual meet record and winning every invitational and sectional track meet it entered this year, the Princeton High School track team, literally, did not make a false step.

It made one Saturday at North Brunswick and it probably cost the Little Tigers the Central Jersey Group 2 title, which was won by Asbury Park. The Blue Bishops edged PHS for the second year, 60-59.

Princeton's Paul Miles, the defending 100-meter state champion, was disqualified for a false start. He said later that he felt his blocks slipping and came out a tenth of a second too soon. "Otherwise, I would have fallen over," he said. "But no excuse. I just false-started."

Miles rebounded by winning the 200 meter in a new meet record time of 21.8, outdistancing Doug Johnson of Asbury Park (22.4) by 20 yards.

"We're Disappointed." "We ran good times today but we're disappointed," said PHS coach Marc Anderson. "This is what we were shooting for." Ironically, Ewing, which PHS defeated easily in a dual season meet, won the Central Jersey Group 3 crown.

In any other group, Anderson commented that he felt the outcome would have been different. "Asbury Park is very good and has lots of depth. We'll just have to wait until next year. I hope this fires the kids up."

In a meet in which one point determines the outcome there are little things that could have made it different, Anderson pointed out. For example, in the 800 meter race, record-setting Dave Hall of West Windsor edged the favorite, Princeton's John Perkins, 1:56.7 to 1:57.5. In the shot put, P.J. Young of PHS had to settle for second place by less than three inches with a toss of 50-3½. Jack Wilson of Middlesex won the event with 53-0.

PHS sophomore Stephan Fletcher won the 110 high hurdles in 14.3 with teammate Wayne Davis taking a second, and Tom Patrick won the 3,000 in 8:54.7. Perkins and Patrick then combined to finish 1-2 in the 1,500 meter in times of 4:09.7 and 4:13.4.

After Peter Sharpless had won the high jump with a 6-8 effort to defend his title in that event and Lamont Fletcher had captured a second in the 100-meter dash and a third in the 400 IH hurdles, it all came down to the mile relay, with PHS clinging to a one-point lead, 55-54.

Despite a blistering final leg by Miles, Princeton's team of Lamont Fletcher, Ray Fisher and Jon Woolston finished second to Asbury Park. PHS was clocked in 3:26.6, Asbury in 3:23.7.

Miles's disqualification for his false start will prohibit him from competing in this week's state group championships. "The one false start rule is pretty tough on a kid," remarked Anderson.

Voorhees with 26 points was a distant third in the 14-team Group 2 field. Earlier in the week, PHS had kept its dual meet record perfect with a 99-30 victory over Hightstown in a CVC meet.

PHS Girls Sixth. In the NJISAA Group 2 Central Jersey girls championships held in Flemington, PHS finished sixth in a 16-team field, with 17 points.

Gladys Rice was second in the 400 meter with a 59.6 and third in the 200. Fran Johnson was second in the javelin with a 110-6 effort. The event was won by Hopewell Valley's Lynne Harkness, who had a 116-7 winning toss.

Princeton's Kim Johnson finished third in the 100 meter (12.8) and Alyson Brandt was third in the 400 low hurdles (1:10.30).

SOCCER TRYOUTS SET

For This Weekend. The Princeton Soccer Association will hold tryouts for the 1981-1982 traveling teams on Saturday and Sunday.

Every player interested in playing with a PSA traveling team in the fall, including those already on a team, must try out. The tryouts will be held on the Princeton Soccer fields on Washington Road from 1 to 3.

Children born in the years 1966-1972 are eligible. For further information, call Mimi Ballard, 924-8631.

WINNERS NAMED

In Softball League. In games last week in the Women's Slow Pitch Softball League, Koffee Kup defeated Andy's Tavern, 4-2, and Alchemist and Barrister, 18-3; Conte's Bar defeated Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, 8-3, and Andy's, 8-4; Annex Restaurant defeated Rusty Scupper, 17-1 and PITC, 15-2, Mike's Tavern defeated Ivy Inn, 19-4, and Ivy Inn defeated Rusty Scupper, 16-7.

In the standings, Koffee Kup, 3-0, and Conte's and Mike's, both 2-0, are undefeated. Annex and Ivy are both 2-1, A&B and PITC are 1-2 and Andy's and Rusty Scupper are 0-3.

Four games will be played this Wednesday at 6:15 at Community Park. On Sunday at 5 at Community Park: Mike's vs. Annex; Koffee Kup vs. PITC, Rusty Scupper vs. Conte's and Andy's vs. A&B.

PROGRAMS OFFERED

To Tennis Players. It will be a busy summer for the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

Beginning June 1, a one-week mini tennis camp will be offered for adults. Under the direction of Art Cramp, pro at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, and Karen Bull, director of instructors for the Princeton Community Tennis Program, the mini-camp has a limited enrollment.

On June 8, the "Early June Session" begins. This two-week "camp" for juniors, geared for those out of school early, offers instruction, matches and games.

Pre-Retirement Program

cancer examinations and dental examinations every year, blood-pressure tests every two years, and so on.

Dr Wright introduced three people whose organizations, he said, can help the retired to better health: Rich Jackson (YMCA physical fitness); Pat Ilite (Holistic Health) and Michael Loyack (hospital "Well-ness" program).

"I pricked a little response," Dr Wright chuckled later, "when I told the audience there was no need to take supplemental vitamins – some of them didn't exactly agree with me!"

Problems of the retirement age are, Dr Wright warned, over-weight, over-smoking, compulsive over-working and under-exercising.

But – "what if?"

Dr Wright told the group that if anyone should have a heart attack, Princeton has an excellent First Aid and Rescue Squad, hospital coronary care unit and follow-up home care.

What About a Stroke? It was Sandra R. Brown, professor at Princeton Theological Seminary, who threw in the stunner about a stroke. She wanted to demonstrate that you might have to change your plans, and that the life-time agenda of fishing, travel, gardening and writing might have to be altered.

Along with the practicalities of social security and trusts, the University brought in someone to talk about real estate. It was appraiser Joseph Martin, who told the pre-retirees how to decide whether to rent or own and how to figure the special capital gains tax advantage of selling a home at 55.

He also gave tips on buying condominiums and mobile homes, and choosing a real estate agent. Like many of the other speakers, he gave out work-sheets so the participants could do home-work.

Four who have already retired from the University – a fifth couldn't make it, but we'll come to that later – told the final session how it was. All had retired in the last five years, and the consensus was – "we love it!"

The four were Robert Winters, who had been assistant librarian for facilities, Robert Schultz, an engineer in the physical plant office, Helen Morris, formerly with the development office and Don Fruland, purchasing manger for the plasma physics lab.

Victor Leiker, of the International Executive Service Corps, urged retired men and women to take on volunteer work, instead of looking for paid jobs.

"It's a lot of fun," he told the audience, "and you can tell the boss to go to hell, if you feel like it."

The response to the series was "great!" Mr Adelson reports. He and Mrs. Doig will now look over the answers participants gave to a survey on the series. They will decide whether to do follow-up sessions, whether to hold a similiar program next year and how the format might be changed.

Mr Adelson is not really sure why the fifth retiree didn't show up last week. He says she is in her 70s, widowed for about 45 years. She's had a trailer for many years and spends most of her time traveling around the country in it. He figures she was out of town, exploring a new road.

PROGRAMS AVAILABLE

For Young People at Watersheds. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association will hold an "Environmental Explorations" program this summer.

Those entering grades 7 or 8 can take part in an "Outdoor Challenge," July 6-10, where study of the environment will be combined with outdoor activities such as orienteering and canoeing. Fifth and sixth graders are invited to investigate "Ugly Bugs, Prickly Plants and Slimy Fish" and the natural and man-affected causes of change from July 13-17.

From July 20-24, youngsters entering grades 3 or 4 will search for "Mud Marvels and Pond Paddlers" and will discover many adaptations for living in strange places. "Or Would You Rather Be a Fish?" from July 27-31 will encourage creativity and curiosity and is offered to those entering grades 1 and 2.

For more information about the summer program and fees, call program director Pam Paquette at 737-3735.

APRIL WAS BUSY

For Rescue Squad. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad responded to a total of 98 calls during April, 88 of which were emergency dispatches. Some 40 of the calls occurred during week-day hours between 8 and 6 while the paid crew was on duty.

In addition to their on-duty calls, the two "daytime" people responded to a total of 29 additional weekend and night calls as volunteers. Volunteer and paid personnel together put in a total of 350 hours actually on calls. Forty-seven of the calls were in the Borough, 42 in the Township, and nine were to surrounding communities. In 15 of these calls, telemetry was established with the hospital and call direction received from the physician at the hospital.

This month, accidental injuries accounted for the largest group of calls, 14 by falls, 10 involving motor vehicles, and 3 involving bicycles. Heart and circulatory problems accounted for a number of calls; 10 were apparent heart attacks (including three cardiac arrests), six were possible strokes, and two persons were treated for extreme shortness of breath. Additional calls included several instances of internal bleeding, psychiatric emergencies, several overdoses, two obstetrical emergencies, several instances of fainting, two individuals with severe insulin reactions, a near drowning, seizures, and a variety of others.

In several instances the skill and promptness of the Squad's response was life-saving. So far this year, the Squad has responded to 436 calls, an average of 3.6 calls per day.

ELECTION NIGHT PARTY

By Democrats. The Princeton Community Democratic Organization is sponsoring an Election Night Party Tuesday at the Palmer Room of the Nassau Inn in Princeton. The public is invited.

The party will begin at 7:30 for those who would like to watch the primary election returns on big-screen TV. There will also be a brief panel discussion led by Tom Hartmann, professor of political science at Livingston College, Rutgers University. He will focus on the primary election results, the candidates and the campaign issues.

The party has also been organized to provide an opportunity to thank all those who have given their time and efforts to the local Democratic party, particularly committeepeople in the Borough and Township.

Light refreshments and a cash bar will be available. For further information, call Beth Healey at 921-1595.

When You Need Blood, You Can't Wait But Princeton Has Critical Shortage

Blood donations to the hospital have declined sharply over the last month. The Red Cross warns that Princeton may face "serious problems which could become dangerous in the next few weeks" unless more people give blood.

All blood used for patients at the Medical Center at Princeton is provided by volunteer donors, all of whom are recruited through the Red Cross. Princeton's hospital does not charge for blood. Donors are not paid for the pint they give.

According to the Red Cross, only three people in every one hundred in the Red Cross area are blood donors. Several give more than once a year. It does not hurt to give blood, the Red Cross points out.

You are eligible if you are between the ages of 18 and 65. If you are only 17, you may give with parental permission; if you are over 65, you may give if your doctor approves.

If you would like to give a pint of blood, call 924-2404 — the office of the Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross — and make an appointment.

Figures collected by the Red Cross show that while the yearly total of blood units has remained fairly steady — 3,494 in 1977 compared to 3,561 in 1980 — the total in the month of May has been declining steadily.

In May, 1977, the total was 357; in 1978, 329; in 1979, 306 and last year, 251.
